RAPS 'GREAT SOCIETY'

Passman Pledges Help On $7 Million Project

By SAM HANNA
Political Editor

TALLULAH — Congressman Otto E. Passman pledged his support Friday to the Fifth District Levee Board in developing a major drainage project in Concordia Parish.

He also told the Tallulah Rotary Club that the country was not drifting but racing toward a socialistic form of government under the "great socialistic society."

ASKED TO ASSIST

Passman was called on by the levee board, meeting at the Madison Parish courthouse here, to assist in obtaining funds for a proposed pumping station in the Cocodrie Bayou area of Concordia.

W. C. Faulkenheimer, a Vidalia board member, explained that the pumping station, planned by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, would offer drainage for 370,000 acres south of Ferriday.

"It would take about $100,000 annually to operate the station and the government requires that this be provided by local sources," Faulkenheimer said.

"I will work with you fully and completely," Passman said. "I can assure you that when we get the authorization, I can get it in the budget."

Chairman E. H. Stewart said the project would cost an estimated $7 million.

Faulkenheimer explained that when the Mississippi River hits a high-water level a floodgate at the Cocodrie floodgate structure closes, holding water in Concordia from the south portion of the parish to the Ferriday-Ridgecrest area.

The pump station would take water across a ring levee into the Red River.

"This would provide a lot of relief for Concordia Parish," added Troyce Guice, a Ferriday board member.

Clyde D. Guthrie, a Tensas Parish member, pointed out that it would be of assistance to the south portion of his parish while Faulkenheimer emphasized that the board sought help from Passman on funds to operate the station.

"I'll need representatives of your board to come to Washington to testify in committee hearings and we'll try to get all of it in the appropriation," Passman said.

State Sen. Charles Brown, Tallulah, also offered his assistance.

A proposed Tensas River drainage project, iced away a few weeks ago by the board, was not mentioned in the talks with Passman.

Later, in a noon address to Tallulah Rotarians, Passman leveled criticism at President Johnson's "Great Society" program, saying, "We are using the savings of the past, the earnings of the present and borrowing from the future to create what appears to be on the surface as the emerging Great Society to be everything to everybody everywhere."

But he said the administration's legislation on Medicare and federal aid to education would pass the Congress, adding, "The New Deal, the New Frontier are conservative in comparison with the Great Society."

The Fifth District solon expressed greatest concern, however, on the nation's finances. "We are now borrowing money from seven foreign nations while our gold reserve has dropped from $26 billion to $15 billion," he explained. "We must maintain a minimum of $13 billion to support our monetary system, but there is pending legislation to drop the minimum reserve to $6 billion."

"We are taking out more than we are taking in while the President goes on the air and says we've held down the bud-et," Passman said. "That is calculated misrepresentation."

On his pet subject of foreign aid, Passman, chairman of the House subcommittee on foreign aid appropriations, explained that the government had "fragmentized" foreign aid into 18 different parts, pointing out that he handled only one of the foreign aid bills.

"It'll be the highest bill on foreign aid ever because they have fragmentized it," he said. Passman also noted that the past 33 years had been the nation's most prosperous, but the budget, he said, hasn't been balanced but six times.

Then he pointed up the "evils" of the "anti-poverty" program by telling of a cousin of his who lives in a painted house on a Washington Parish farm.

The congressman said his cousin has a Jeep, a four-door sedan, hams in the smoke house, fresh meat in the freezer and a pantry full of jellies and preserves.

"But because my cousin's income is less than $2,000 a year, he is poverty-stricken and eligible for aid under the anti-poverty program," Passman added. So, he said, the President's program would be better named the "great socialistic society."

IN VOTING DRIVE

King Will Appeal To LBJ For Help

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Friday that he left his jail cell to seek a meeting Monday with President Johnson for help in the Negro voter drive in Alabama.

King announced his plan a few hours after several hundred more Negroes were arrested here in protest against refusal of county officials to speed up registration.

While King held a news conference, 15 congressmen from Northern and Western states met at the courthouse with several Alabama Republican congressmen to discuss the racial situation.

WANTS AMENDMENTS

"I feel the need for new legislation on the right to vote," King said. "I feel the need for a constitutional amendment, one that probably will set up federal registrars and set the same standards for both federal and state registration."

King said that one of his aides already had contacted a presidential assistant about a meeting with Johnson. He said that continued demonstrations in Selma were "a real possibility."

He said the drive here would be successful if the registrars would agree to operate on a daily basis and if authorities would stop arresting Negroes for walking to the courthouse.

"We plan to be in Selma until the victory for the right to vote is won," he said. But he said he would return to Atlanta today and then resume his Alabama campaign during the next few days, going into some adjoining counties.

King said that an injunction issued Thursday by U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas in Mobile was a step in the right direction.

"But we feel the need for an injunction to keep county and city officials from interfering with basic constitutional privileges of assembly and protest," he said.

King said that literacy tests should be thrown out completely. He said Alabama will be his major target in 1965 but he plans some activity in Mississippi.

Noisy demonstrations by Negroes — adults and students — seeking civil rights broke out again earlier Friday in this western Alabama town as King walked out of jail after five days imprisonment.

King drove to Marion, 30 miles west of here, and spoke to an overflow crowd of 350 wildly cheering Negroes on Friday night. He advised them to continue their voter registration struggle.

Civil rights workers in Marion have staged a week-long voter registration drive. Several hundred Negroes have been arrested during the week.

Ex-Pastor Weds

A marriage of wide local interest was performed Friday afternoon in Hamburg, Ark., where the couple went, we're told, to hold the ceremony "on the QT."

The principals, well-known in the Twin Cities, were the Rev. Tom Mitchell, former pastor of West Monroe's Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, now retired, and the former Mrs. J. A. Ford, bookkeeper at the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home.

Going with them was the Rev. D. E. Wainwright, pastor of the Edgewood Baptist Church in West Monroe, of which the new Mrs. Mitchell is a member.

The couple, a widow and widower, will be home again next week after a trip to unannounced parts in Mississippi.

'Sweet 16' Now

"Sweet Sixteen" Friday was Miss Blanche Hall of West Monroe.

A sophomore at West Monroe High School, she's the daughter of Milton C. Hall, the parish school system superintendent.

It's been a birthday-prone period recently in the Hall household. Blanche's brother, Mabe, turned 14 on Jan. 25.

BORDER TOWN

Bilingual Operators Want Talent Bonus

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI)—Telephone operators in the U.S.-Mexican border city of Laredo, who walked out Monday in a dispute over extra pay for speaking Spanish, unconditionally abandoned their strike Friday night.

The 30 operators agreed to speak Spanish as well as English without extra pay. Their dispute will be considered in regular negotiations for a new contract for Southwestern Telephone operations at division headquarters in St. Louis.

The operators, in a meeting with local and regional officials of the Communications Workers of America voted twice: On returning to work and on speaking Spanish.

It was understood that a question of contract violation was involved. Robert Freeman, the Laredo manager of the telephone company, said any legal action was up to company officials in St. Louis. They had said Thursday they were not interested in ratification.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Vice President B. Reinhold of St. Louis and Houston Manager N. K. Hooverstock met Thursday night with local and regional union officials. The union officials reported to the rank-and-file Friday on Thursday night's meeting.

Telephone operators in Laredo, which is on the Mexican border, have to speak Spanish about half the time. They demanded extra pay for speaking two languages and set last Monday as a deadline for the company to pay up, or have only English spoken.

The company refused and Mrs. Della Garcia, the first operator to stop speaking Spanish, was fired. Thirty other operators walked out. Other telephone company employees refused to cross operator picket lines until about 120 persons were out.

Admiral Hits At Education; NEA Blasted

Rickover Says Card Carriers In High Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, atomic submarine expert and volunteer critic of the U.S. school system, set off a new salvo of depth charges under the "education establishment" Friday.

Lawyers, paid consultants and advisory boards also got caught in the blast waves at a hearing before a House Education subcommittee.

PLENTY TO SAY

Rickover was invited to talk about the administration's $250-million higher education bill, but he never quite got to it. He barely got past the title.

"What is higher education?" he asked.

"We have no definition," he answered himself. "Our definitions are not good enough to act intelligently on this subject."

Rickover preferred to talk about one of his pet subjects — the need for a national education standard for high school graduates.

As he outlined it, the test would be taken voluntarily by the students and would be the standard on which college scholarships and admissions would be based. It would also permit an evaluation of U.S. public schools, he said.

Rickover said it should take only four or five people to set up the test and administer it. And they should be responsible to Congress, not the Office of Education.

The admiral expressed a suspicion that the Office of Education has been infiltrated by card-carrying members of the National Education Association and is losing its independence.

Asked how he feels about upgrading the office into a Cabinet-level department, he said: "I wouldn't want to enhance the prerogatives of the Office of Education on the basis of what I've seen. I'd go slow. Build up a better office, with people who are not so closely tied to the education establishment."

Rickover made it clear that by "establishment" he meant administrators, not teachers.

"Oh, you'll find some have degrees as doctor of education—and you know what that means," he added.

For teachers, he couldn't say enough kind things. "They should be paid more than anybody else in the country," he said, and urged that federal funds be used to boost their salaries.

Scattering his fire, he said there is no need for the government to help train lawyers—"God knows we have too many lawyers now"; he doesn't find paid consultants in his field very useful; and when an advisory board comes into the picture "you don't get anything done."

Orleans Suit Asking Docks Be Reopened

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Steamship Association asked Friday for a court order requiring striking longshoremen to live up to their new contract and return to work.

The shipowners alleged in their suit that the six locals of the International Longshoremen's Association are violating terms of the four-year pact they ratified Jan. 28.

The contract includes a provision banning strikes during the four years it is in effect.

The New Orleans ILA locals are remaining away from the docks under ILA policy that no local works until all have contracts. Negotiations still are underway at Philadelphia, Galveston and a few other ports.

Civil Dist. Judge David Gertler called for a hearing at noon today on the shipowners' request for an immediate restraining order.

The strike began Jan. 11 and closed down port activity from Boston to Galveston.

At New Orleans, the nation's second largest port, the direct cost to the port of the walkout was estimated at $1.8 million a day.

The Coast Guard estimates that 150 ships are anchored in the Mississippi River between Pilotown and Baton Rouge, waiting for the strike to end.

Buddhists Protesting While Bundy Confers

FRIDAY'S WINDSTORM in Oregon reached a peak of 102 miles an hour in a gust on the coast, but was strong inland, too. At Pacific University in Forest Grove, student Whitney Brown found his automobile serving as a cushion for fallen oak. Windstorm caused widespread disruption of utility service. (AP Wirephoto)

Storm Winds Slam Oregon; Woman Dies

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A gale smashed into Oregon from the Pacific on Friday tearing down power lines and hurling a woman to her death.

The wind was fiercest at the coastal town of Newport, where a gust reached 102 miles an hour. Portland, however, suffered the most as windows were shattered and 90 per cent of the traffic lights failed. Numerous broadcasting stations were silenced.

HIT BY GUST

The winds dwindled in the afternoon.

Mrs. Tom Abraham, 40, was trying to repair a blown-down awning at nearby Oregon City when a gust hit. It carried her and the awning into the air and dropped her from a height of 10 or 20 feet. She landed on her head and died in a hospital.

The gale was another in a series of weather problems for Oregon this winter. Heavy snowfall and subzero temperatures were followed by floods in December and January.

Only Thursday, thousands of persons left their coastal homes when a tidal wave alert was sounded after an earthquake in the Aleutian Islands. No tidal wave came, however.

Friday's big blow hit Newport, then slanted inland in a northeasterly direction. The strongest winds sailed on a narrow path that scattered trees all over the town of Dallas before moving toward Portland.

A movie house marquee fell at Forest Grove, scattering glass up and down the block.

Motorists on freeways pulled over to the side, fearing their cars would be overturned by the wind.

Rain Possible In Area Today

Twin Cities and area residents can expect continued cloudy skies today with occasional light rain and slightly warmer temperatures.

The official forecast calls for a high of 60 to 65 followed by a night-time low of 46 to 50. Friday's high was a mild 59 recorded at 3 p.m. The low was recorded between 5 and 7 a.m. at 40 degrees.

FAA at Selman Field reported .02 inch of rainfall Friday. More is in the offing today with less than 20 per cent sunshine forecast for the area.

Winds today will be southeast and south at five to 15 miles per hour.

The outlook for Sunday is partly cloudy and mild with showers.

KOSYGIN IN PEKING

Soviets Stick By Red Summit Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai had an after dinner conference Friday night in Peking.

It was noted that a communique on the session did not say whether it was held in a cordial and friendly atmosphere. This phrase is usual in statements about talks between Red leaders and it is also usual to say they reached a complete identity of views.

The meeting was reported in a Tass statement distributed to news media here.

SET ON MEETING

Evidence in Moscow was that the Soviet Union intended to plunge ahead with plans for a meeting of world Communist leaders March 1. Red China has strongly opposed such a meeting, which would be largely concerned with the Peking-Moscow ideological split.

Nevertheless, coinciding with Kosygin's stopover in Peking en route to North Viet Nam, the Kremlin publicly emphasized that the meeting was still on.

The Tass dispatch from Peking said merely that Chou and his top aides gave a dinner for Kosygin and that: "A talk took place between the two sides after the function."

Representatives of the Communist parties of 26 nations will gather in Moscow March 1, under the Soviet plan, to lay the basis for a summer conference.

'PLASMA PINCH ENGINE'

New Rocket Device Ticketed For Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new electric rocket device called a "plasma pinch engine" is ticketed for a ride in space this year, the Navy disclosed Friday.

Though small in size compared with conventional chemical rocket engines, it was described as a possible forerunner of devices which one day may: — Propel manned spacecraft to distant planets after they are first sent aloft by larger rockets.

— Allow orbiting satellites to be switched from one orbit to another — for example, switching communications satellites from low- to high-altitude orbits.

It's designed for initial orbital testing in a Navy satellite later this year — the first electric rocket engine involved in an orbital flight. But it won't go to work until the satellite has first been lobbed into orbit by a conventional rocket.

Cmdr. Milton Gussow of the Air Programs Division, Office of Naval Research, told about the plans in an agency publication, "Naval Research Reviews."

Cooperating in the effort will be the Naval Research Laboratory and the Bureau of Naval Weapons. While Gussow didn't say so, the bureau's interest presumably indicates the tiny 11-pound engine, with 12 pounds of allied equipment, has military potentialities.

It is designed to function by the interaction of an electric current and a magnetic field in the presence of a hydrogen gas — the latter serving as a propellant.

The electricity and the magnetic field team up to create a force that compresses, or pinches the electrified gas — called a plasma — and causes the gas to be exhausted very rapidly through nozzles in the spacecraft. This propels the vehicle in the direction opposite to that of the exhaust.

The device produces a very low thrust. But once a satellite has been launched aloft little thrust is needed to move it.

Cong Inflict Last Minute Heavy Blow

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnamese Buddhists Friday called a massive procession in the riot-prone city of Hue as U.S. presidential envoy McGeorge Bundy pressed fact-finding talks with top government and religious leaders in Saigon.

GATHER AT HUE

The first of an expected 15,000 Buddhist marchers began to gather in Hue Friday for today's procession. The march will coincide with a series of talks Bundy scheduled with representatives of South Viet Nam's religious groups in Saigon to try to sort out the religious hatreds dividing the nation.

Bundy, dispatched to Saigon by President Johnson, met Friday with armed forces Commander in Chief Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who was returned to power in South Viet Nam late last month by another military coup. The talk was described as "warm and cordial."

While they met, belated American reports disclosed that Communist guerrillas had inflicted a costly defeat on government militia troops in Din Binh Province, 250 miles northwest of Saigon, just before a Red-imposed cease-fire went into effect for the lunar new year's period.

The spokesman said the Viet Cong Communists killed 19 militiamen, wounded 10 and scattered or captured 87 others in the two-day action Jan. 29 and 30.

Bundy scheduled talks in Saigon this morning with representatives of Viet Nam's two major religious groups — the Buddhists and the Roman Catholics. He also will meet with figures from the Hoa Hao and Cao Dai sects, which maintain their own private armies.

Almost simultaneously the Buddhists were to march in Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, in a procession intended to celebrate last month's fiery suicide of a 17-year-old Buddhist girl in the city of Nha Trang. The girl's suicide helped destroy the American-backed civilian government that was strongly opposed by the Buddhist leadership.

Hue's grateful Buddhists planned to march for four hours, from Diau Da Pagoda to Tu Dam Pagoda, on the opposite side of the town. The route goes through virtually every neighborhood in Hue — Viet Nam's old imperial capital and a traditional flashpoint for anti-government movements.

The powerful monk, Tri Quang, promised to address the throng when he reached Tudam, where he now lives. Tri Quang is the principal leader of Hue's Buddhists and the most powerful of the politically-oriented monks in South Viet Nam.

Hue is the city in which anti-Americanism reached its peak in the latest series of Buddhist riots.

The Buddhists guaranteed, however, that the latest march would be non-political.

In Saigon, Bundy's meeting with Gen. Khanh was postponed for four hours because the presidential assistant was tied up with communications from Washington.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor sat in on the Bundy-Khanh meeting which took place at Khanh's riverside residence. It was Taylor who described the meeting was warm and cordial.

BAKER INQUIRY

Celler's Interest Checked In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee completed a closed inquiry Friday into a government contract with a Texas concern that paid a $10,000 legal fee shared by the law firms of Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Bobby Baker.

Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, was not one of the witnesses, but he has said that the fee from the Sweet Water Development Co. of Dallas in 1961 had nothing to do with any government contract.

The committee is investigating how Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, became a millionaire while on the Senate payroll at a salary of $19,600 a year.

A dozen witnesses were questioned about the Interior Department's contract with Sweet Water, a company controlled by the Murchison interests of Texas, for the development of a process for taking the salt out of seawater.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said the committee will make the testimony public later, either by release of the printed record or through another round of hearings open to the public.

"It was strictly from dullsville," said Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., one of the committee members, as he left the closed session.

The committee will meet again Monday to decide what to do about the nonappearance Thursday of Walter Jenkins, President Johnson's former top aide. Jenkins was under subpoena but a lawyer and two psychiatrists went before the committee to urge that he not be subjected to questioning.

The former White House aide resigned by request last October after disclosure he twice had been arrested on morals charges. One of the psychiatrists advised the committee last December that Jenkins was suffering "a depressive reaction of the utmost gravity."

The committee called Jenkins for questioning about testimony that he pressured a local insurance man, Don B. Reynolds, into buying advertising time on an Austin, Tex., television station owned by Johnson's family.

Jordan was asked if there are any other aspects of the Baker case that the committee is going into. Jordan said he couldn't say.

Special counsel L. P. McLendon noted the committee is still waiting for a report from the Justice Department on secret testimony given by Reynolds last December.

Reynolds, who has been a star witness in the investigation, gave testimony that has been described by committee members as "pretty lurid."

McLendon said that when the Justice Department's report is received, the committee will have to meet and decide what to do about it.

Traffic Cases Head City Court Session Docket

Business was brisk in Monroe city court Friday, with a total of 46 cases on the docket. All but one were traffic cases, including 11 for speeding, 4 for reckless driving, and 30 for minor violations.

Heading the docket on speeding charges was Ralph B. Pearson, 705 McGuire street, Monroe, who was found guilty as charged and sentenced to a fine of $40 plus $10 court costs. Joe D. Tolbert, Rt. 4, Box 235, Monroe, was found guilty on similar charges and fined $20 plus $10 court costs.

Forfeiting bonds on speeding charges were the following: Doris Mynatt Kramar, 2022 Filhol, $13; James Morrison, 1205 South 10th street, $8; John T. Hobson, of Box 94, Sterlington, $8; John Justice, Rt. 3, Box 722-A of Monroe, $10; Leon Miletello Jr., 205 Carlton street, $12; Jack J. Noland Jr., 3601 Armand, $13; Doyle C. Price, 901 South 6th street, $8; Robert A. Sale, 514 Avovalles, $8; and Betty Tucker, 226 Egan street, $13.

Willie E. Anderson, 425 North 23rd street in Monroe, was found guilty of reckless driving charges and fined $30 plus $10 court costs. The same fine on reckless driving charges was also given to Lovell Powell, 906 Atkinson street, Monroe, and Willie Simpson, Rt. 1, Bernice. Forfeiting bond of $40 on the same charge was Madeline J. Betts, 1616 Francis Place, Monroe.

Elois Barfield, 1110 Columbia street in Monroe, forfeited $30 bond on battery charges.

Minor traffic violations included 11 for running red lights, 9 running stop signs, 4 following too close, 3 no driver's license, two improper turns, and one turning where prohibited.

Students Attend Library Meeting

Four West Monroe Junior High School students are serving as delegates to the Louisiana Teenage Library Association Convention today at Baton Rouge.

They are Cynthia Ziegler, Hugh Eley, Diane Maza and Mike Albritton. They are being accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Sue Hardin, school librarian.

Theme for the convention is "A World Influenced by Books" and is being sponsored by the Louisiana School Librarians Association of the Louisiana Teachers Association.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be a political rally to elect new officers for the group.

Firm Nearer To Reaching Public Sale

NEW YORK (AP) — After 23 years as the reluctant owner of a major chemical company, the U.S. government drew nearer Friday to the day when it can sell the company to the public.

The company is General Aniline & Film Co., seized by the United States as Nazi-controlled property during World War II.

The seizure in 1942 touched off one of the longest and most complex court cases in history. Interhandel, a Swiss holding company owning most of the General Aniline shares, disputed the legality of the seizure.

Twice the case went to the U.S. Supreme Court.

General Aniline's plants in nine states continued turning out chemicals, dyes and Anso photographic products.

General Aniline registered Friday with the Securities and Exchange Commission the 11,166,438 shares of common stock held by the Justice Department. The shares represent 93.3 per cent of the outstanding common stock.

No difficulty was expected in obtaining SEC approval.

The Justice Department has said that it plans to ask investment banking firms to bid on the shares, for resale to the public in small packages to insure widespread distribution.

On Tuesday, nine of the 16 directors resigned and nine others picked by the Justice Department were elected. The new directors include Oveta Culp Hobby, president of the Houston Post Co. and secretary of Health, Education and Welfare under President Dwight D. Eisenhower; and Clark Clifford, a Washington lawyer and White House aide during the Harry S. Truman administration.

Years of litigation ended last April when a federal court approved an agreement between the Justice Department and Interhandel, which disputed the seizure of 89 per cent of the stock.

The agreement was to split the proceeds from the sale of the 89 per cent. The U.S. government was to receive all the proceeds from the 11 per cent. And Interhandel would pay about $25 million in taxes and other expenses.

The Justice Department has said that if, for example, the stock sale returns $200 million, the government would get about $140 million, and Interhandel about $60 million.

The money the U.S. government gets is to go into a war claims fund.

Under the announced conditions for the stock sale no individual can buy more than 1,000 shares and no institution more than 50,000.

Before the 19th Century, British soldiers saluted by tipping their hats, a custom dating back to Roman times when partial disrobing was considered a mark of respect.

FISTS FLY

SNCC Members Charge Officers

NEW YORK (AP) — Violence erupted late Friday at the U.S. Court House when 12 members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee formed a flying wedge and attempted to storm their way into the building through a resisting corps of deputy U.S. marshals.

Fighting broke out with the marshals and demonstrators — protesting Negro arrests in Selma, Ala. — meeting head on amid a wild flurry of flying fists and kicks.

Some of the combatants were locked in wrestling grips as they rolled and tumbled down the long flight of granite stairs in front of the building.

Hard thrown punches found their marks on both sides, and the melee was marked further by the mingled cursing of the participants and the encouraging shouts of 60 committee pickets nearby who broke ranks to witness the fighting.

The violence lasted about a minute.

The group had hoped to get inside the building to stage a sit-in demonstration against what they claim is a lack of federal intervention in the Negro voter registration drive in Selma.

Members of the same group conducted a similar sit-in Thursday in the offices of U.S. Atty. Robert Morgenthau but were dragged from the building.

Anticipating a repeat of Thursday's action, federal officials watered down the steps of the court house, and the cold weather soon turned the stairway into a sheet of ice.

At the height of the brief brawl, several of the demonstrators made their way up the steps but were met by marshals.

More than one marshal was later noted with a puffed lip or bruised hand. Some of the demonstrators also bore marks.

One demonstrator dashed up the center of the steps and was grabbed by two deputies. The three fell to the steps and rolled down about five feet.

When the demonstrator arose, he tried again and was grabbed and hustled into the building. He was placed in the detention cell block.

Then the other demonstrators gathered up their placards and left.

French Smokers Cut Consumption

PARIS (AP) — Cigarette smoking in France in 1964 showed signs of leveling off, partly as a result of reports linking tobacco and cancer, a government statement showed Friday.

Frenchmen still spend a lot on tobacco, however. In 1964, they expended total of $933.6 million for smoking tobacco, the chewing variety and snuff.

But, the government report said, this was an increase over the preceding year of only 4.7 per cent. In comparison, funds spent on tobacco and snuff in 1963 were 10 per cent more than the amount spent in 1962.

GET A FREE RIDE IN A $19,700 Rolls Royce Today AT RIVERS FORD!

Because some people questioned the report that our Ford LTD rides quieter than a Rolls-Royce, we made arrangements several weeks ago to bring a Rolls-Royce to our Dealership so that you may make your own comparison rides. Many of our friends and customers expressed regret that they were either out of town or some other reason kept them from getting to make this comparison. We are happy to again make arrangements to have this Rolls-Royce at our dealership all day, today. You are again invited to come out for a free ride in each. Since most Rolls-Royces in the world are chauffeur driven, we made arrangements to give you the same treatment.

Coming Fall Is Final Hour For U.S. Aid, Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid hangs in the balance as the government seeks guarantees from the nation's schools that they will move — at least by next September — to end racial discrimination.

The September target date for schools that are partly or totally segregated was set by the assistant secretary of welfare, James M. Quigley.

Federal agencies — 21 in all — are moving now to enforce the 1964 civil rights law ban on federal aid to programs and institutions which engage in racial discrimination.

The first phase is a call for assurances from schools, hospitals, universities, state and local governments and a variety of other operations that they are complying with the ban on discrimination.

Ninety-five of the more than 190 programs covered by the law are centered in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Quigley said the department does not want assurances signed by school districts which are not now in full compliance with the ban on discrimination. Instead, those districts can file reports on their plans for integration to meet terms of the civil rights law.

Quigley said districts which are moving to integration but haven't completed their steps should submit the same thing.

Quigley said school districts should be ready to implement desegregation plans no later than the beginning of the school year next September in order to meet the terms of the law.

There is no information to indicate whether any school districts or other agencies receiving federal aid will choose to ignore the requirement and forfeit their assistance rather than comply.

In Southern states, the U.S. Office of Education distributes more than $300 million each year.

As of Feb. 3, Quigley reported this assurance picture in his department:

— 2,436 colleges, universities, hospitals, medical schools and other institutions had given their assurances. All the Southern state universities were among them.

— About 1,000 of more than 27,000 local school districts had signed assurances. No geographic breakdown was available.

— A half-dozen Southern school districts had filed their plans for integration to move into compliance with the law.

Claiborne Pay Hike Scheduled For Teachers

HOMER (Special) — The Claiborne Parish School Board has approved a salary increase for teachers and other employees as set by the special session of the Legislature. School personnel will begin receiving the increased pay by April 1.

Board members discussed the impending enforcement of the Civil Rights Act, which requires the state superintendent of education and the parish school boards to sign a compliance agreement by March 3 or lose federal assistance.

Claiborne school board has received nothing official in writing and members agreed to wait until the compliance agreement is sent to the parish and will deal with it at that time.

The United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare is responsible for enforcing the act's requirement, cutting off federal funds to schools not integrated.

Some parishes get more operating funds than does Claiborne from the federal government.

elects new officers at its annual stockholders meeting Thursday night.

George Butler Pugh of Hamburg will serve as president for the coming year and Gene Mitchell of Crossett will serve as vice president.

New members elected to the board of directors are Dr. Michael McDaniel and Roger Heiss of Crossett and Howard Timmens of Hamburg.

Crossett's New Fire Chief To Be John Lewis

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — John Lewis of Fayetteville, has been named Crossett's new fire chief.

He will fill the post left vacant by the death of Russell Bell, who was serving as acting fire chief.

Mayor Vaskell Carter announced Friday that he had called Lewis following approval of the move by the City Council earlier this week.

Lewis has accepted the appointment and plans to be in Crossett by Feb. 15.

Lewis is assistant chief at Fayetteville and has 16 years of fire-fighting experience behind him.

Special approval had to be obtained from the City Council because Lewis demanded a salary of $500 to come and the council had budgeted only $425.

School Riot Instigators

Student riots are rarely spontaneous and undirected. The instigators are almost always professional agitators and many of them are agents of espionage organizations. This means there should be no lenient policy and no coddling of riot leaders. In most instances, if they are disrupting orderly conduct, they should be jailed immediately, before the damage has been too great.

Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University, said the Federal Bureau of Investigation had warned him and other college presidents last March of "an organized attempt by foreign money to disrupt universities of America" through the use of "bogus students and bogus faculty members."

That this warning was well justified was clearly demonstrated early in December by the scandalous and treasonable activities at the Berkeley campus of the University of California. There, about 1,000 "students" jammed the university's administration building in an all-night sit-in that disrupted the university administration for 15 hours.

Ordinarily, peace officers of a university city depend on officials of the university to let them know when things get out of hand. Unless demonstrations become too violent, the peace officers wait to be called in. Now that the F. B. I. has warned that these university riots, in all probability, will be inspired by communist and other subversive agents, university officials should call in peace officers at the first sign of an outbreak and if local officers are incapable of handling the situation, a request should be made of the governor for assistance by the National Guard. There is simply no sense in allowing most of the college students to be overrun by paid subversive agents.

Student riots at the University of California are over and have been for some time, the faculty and the public are saying prayerfully. There is a deep conviction that the violent demonstrations that shook Berkeley and paralyzed academic life there are only the beginning of nationwide trouble in the colleges.

Partly responsible for this fear is the substantial knowledge that appeasement of student lawlessness merely gives those who instigate the riots further encouragement.

In the California disturbances, the faculty and administration did what historically has opened the door to more trouble. In the worse possible sort of attempted appeasement, the administration admitted the "principle" that students should play an important part in determining academic policy. This pleased riot leaders no end. They were not looking for appeasement but were bent on going as far as they possibly could before being stopped by the law. The appeasement policy allowed them to go far beyond what discreet law enforcement should permit.

It was through exactly this type of leniency, coddling and admitting of erroneous principles that Latin American universities have been taken over by communist agitators.

In this connection, Ralph de Toledano, Washington news analyst said:

"If this sounds like a scare statement, I refer you to a report prepared by the Library of Congress — hardly an extremist organization — and released February 1 by Senator Thomas J. Dodd on 'Communist Infiltration in Latin American Education.'"

"What happened in Berkeley after the riots, what we know about American communist youth leaders, and what the report notes in the Latin American experience point to a tragic future for education in the United States."

Two sentences of the report said:

"The administration of most Latin American universities is the result of a reform movement which began in Cordoba, Argentina, in 1918 and spread across the continent. One constant feature of the reform movement was the democratization of the university, which meant direct participation by students in the university administration."

Since the driving force among the students was made up of paid, professional agitators and espionage agents, the effect was a communist, radical takeover of the universities, with the principal purpose being disruption and not education.

At the University of California, the rioting students, led by professional "students," who are trained agitators in thin disguise, demand democratization and the direct participation that the Library of Congress report deplors. Precedent, which it is sincerely hoped other universities will not follow, was established when the faculty invited the rioting students to share in the "settlement." This move by the faculty, in all probability, was promoted by "planted" communists among the faculty members.

If we don't want American colleges and universities run by agents of the Communist party in Russia, there should be a quick crackdown by police, and possibly by the F. B. I. and the national guard, if necessary, when riots occur. Rioting by students who have no implanted ulterior motive is practically unknown. Any such rioting should be stopped as suddenly as is a person who collides with a heavy stone wall.

Budget With 'Gasitis'

Authoritative sources in Washington, including several senators, say President Johnson's budget of "under $100 billion" is swelling like a person with peritonitis or "gasitis." They say there has never been such a big increase in any peacetime budget as that set forth by the President. The "under $100 billion" budget was a mere camouflage — something to make it look as if President Johnson would not be the first President in history to ask for more than $100 billion.

A couple of Congressmen, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, tell how it works.

Representative George H. Mahon, D., Tex., able chairman of the House appropriations committee said:

"Contrary to widespread impression, the House of Representatives will not act directly on the more generally familiar $99,700,000,000 spending budget for fiscal 1966. The House acts on the new obligatory authority of $106,400,000,000 for 1966, the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1965."

"The grant of authority to obligate is the significant thing. The actual expenditure in payment necessarily follows in due time. If no obligation is created, then no expenditure, or disbursement, is made.

Mahon called attention to the fact that $6,000,000,000 in supplemental appropriations for 1965 were asked in President Johnson's budget message to Congress.

Said Congressman Frank Bow, R., Ohio:

"With the supplemental appropriations, the President asks a total of $112,400,000,000. So, the President is really asking, in this session, to enact obligatory authority of $111,000,000,000 above what was done in the current fiscal year. I cannot recall such a large increase in any peacetime budget."

Somehow these statements and this situation bring to mind the lines in a poem, "The Psalm of Life," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, which said:

"Life is but an empty dream, for the soul is dead that slumbers, and things are not what they seem."

Sinkiang, site of China's first atomic explosion, is its biggest and least populated province. It is four times bigger than California, with 5,640,000 people.

Wow! How Junior Has Grown!!

BASCOM TIMMONS

Filling Gaps In Procedure

President Takes Steps To Do That

IT IS BECOMING evident that very few of the gaps in government procedure, some of which have existed almost as long as this government will remain unplugged if President Johnson has his way.

Already his administration can say that it has made operative, through the civil rights act, the 14th amendment to the Constitution, sometimes referred to as the "unconstitutional amendment" because of doubt about the legality of its adoption by the required three fourths of the States.

The amendment forbids any State from passing laws abridging the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States. Despite charges that North and South Carolina were forced to ratify the amendment by federal pressure, and the attempted withdrawal of previous ratification by New York and New Jersey, Congress directed the secretary of state (then William H. Seward) to declare it in effect.

Now the President has made recommendations to fill all gaps in constitutional provisions for succession to the Presidency.

for the period of a presidential disability, for filling a vacancy in the office of vice president and for clarifying the present provisions for computing and awarding the electoral vote.

IT SEEMS RATHER incredible that a nation which has followed the guidance of its constitution since March 4, 1789 should have failed to fill gaps which, on several occasions might have caused such confusion in Congress and in the nation as to endanger the orderly functioning of government. But Congress itself over the years has allowed legislation to cure all those defects to die without final action.

Electoral college changes have been debated in Congress as much as have the obviously desirable bridging of the gaps in constitutional provisions covering the presidency.

Conservative thought has been that any effort to "tinker" with the electoral college might result in its abolition and the election of President and Vice President by direct vote of the people.

The electoral college represents a compromise in the constitutional convention between the supporters of direct elections and those who thought that the election itself should be made by representative and respected citizen elected by popular vote, who would prevent the government from falling into the hands of irresponsible groups.

In the constitutional convention, there was a conviction that with several candidates for President, the electoral vote might be so divided that the election itself could be thrown into Congress, as the Constitution provides in such an impasse. A number of the founding fathers thought that would be a good idea, as they clung to the belief that Congress should be the most powerful of the three branches of government.

HOWEVER, IT DID NOT turn out that way. Only two presidents, Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams, actually were elected by the House of Representatives, after they failed to receive majorities in the electoral college.

Now the President has come forward with two proposed constitutional changes in the procedure of electing the President and Vice President. He would provide that the electoral votes of a state be cast "for those persons who receive the greatest number of votes for President and Vice President — and for no one else."

And if the electoral college should be unable to reach a decision, with its present power to elect anyone it chooses, the President would change the provisions regarding election by the House, which now gives each State one vote in such an emergency, to provide for a joint session of Congress, with each Senator and each Representative having one vote.

Amendments must be adopted by two thirds of the members of each House and ratified by three fourths of the State legislatures. The present indication is that an amendment for filling the office of vice president, and setting up a mechanism to declare a presidential disability will have easy sailing in both Congress and probably in State legislatures as well.

The electoral college proposal, with its corollary change in directions for election of President and Vice President by Congress, will probably face opposition. The right to vote for persons outside the regular nominees is still cherished in some Southern States. The "one State, one vote" rule is equally backed by smaller States, such as Delaware, Rhode Island and New Hampshire and some western States. They are likely to contend that the President's proposal of "one man, one vote" could place the election of a President in the control of the big States.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

California Vote Will Be Watched

When the 1966 elections roll around, the eyes of the nation will be focused on California. This state of topsy-turvy politics and high political passions will be the population leader of the 50 now within the American union. And what happens there may be a pointer to a national trend. At the very least, it will offer a colorful splash among the drabs and greys of our political spectrum.

The signs of what California may or may not do are already under study by strategists of both political parties. They see the state as a grand prize and hope it will be theirs. But the situation is already so murky that few will make any predictions.

This much is true: if the Republican Party in California held its gubernatorial primary today, the candidate would be, hands down, Ronald Reagan. This has a little something to do with the fine showing that another Hollywood personality, George Murphy, made in 1964. Mr. Murphy, it will be recalled, breasted the Johnsonian tidal wave and won himself a seat as the Republican Senator from California.

FAR MORE IMPORTANT than this is the record Mr. Reagan chalked up for himself during the past campaign. He was a late starter, but the fault was hardly his. Late in the campaign, the Goldwater forces reluctantly agreed that Ronald Reagan was making some of the best and most persuasive speeches of any Republican campaigner. Suddenly, he was seen everywhere on the television screens. His earnestness, his delivery, and his text caused widespread comment.

California Republicans knew of these qualities in Mr. Reagan. The so-called average voter saw Mr. Reagan, remembered him in pictures and as the master of ceremonies in a fine General Electric TV series, and combined the two into a generally favorable impression. As a result, the genuinely spontaneous groundswell for him began. Letters poured in, urging him to run for public office in 1966, preferably for the governorship.

Unless a newcomer pops up — and there are no signs of one yet — Ronald Reagan will be the man to beat for the Republican nomination and for the governorship, come 1966. If the Republicans are not so sure, the Democrats don't share in this hesitancy. For up and down the state, where the liberal — left meets, the word is out to cut down Mr. Reagan before he gets too big. One political observer describes this anti-Reagan campaign as "the old smear — dirty him up before he's gone past you."

SO MR. REAGAN, who is a good constructive conservative, is being called a Bircher, a reactionary, and worse — as if he were already running. He has not yet fully made up his mind to run, but these attacks are pushing him to that decision. No man likes to be called names, and the usual reaction is a determination to go out and fight.

Whether Mr. Reagan can make it is another matter. But the chances for a Republican to recapture the governorship are better than ever now. Even though the GOP is going through its perpetual process of splitting an amoeba, it is nowhere as badly off as the Democrats. Right — wingers in the GOP proliferate new organizations almost daily, but they mean little. The split in the Democratic Party cuts down to the essential structure of organizational politics.

AS I HAVE previously noted, Governor Edmund Pat Brown, with the muscle of the executive branch at his disposal, is battling the state's most powerful politico, Speaker Jesse Unruh. Mr. Unruh is out to topple Mr. Brown, and to destroy the left — oriented California Democratic Council. To this end he has started a rival organization. The state's national committeeman, Eugene Wyman, is at odds with Mrs. Carmen Warchaw, co-chairman of the state party. In this four-way tug-of-war, there can be no unity until the Democrats choose their gubernatorial candidate — and by that time, the damage will have been done.

With this as a background, Ronald Reagan becomes increasingly more appealing as a candidate. He will win over many Democrats, appeal to the powerful women's vote, and have the advantage of frequent exposure as actor and campaigner. No other California Republican seeking office has as much to offer. Mr. Reagan, moreover, cannot be accused of simply being a good reader of other men's words. He is a student of politics and, according to reliable reports, writes his own speeches.

One fact is clear, however. Neither Mr. Reagan nor any other Republican will win office in California if the reliance is exclusively on Democratic troubles. Elections are won by accentuating the positive — and if the opposition is divided, this is merely icing on the cake.

BARRY GOLDWATER

Aiding Unfriendly Nations Is Rapped

CONTINUED financial help to unfriendly countries is a highly controversial subject and one certain to be closely scrutinized in Congress when President Lyndon Johnson's foreign aid program comes up for debate.

This point will probably receive more attention than the ever-present issue of how much total aid is to be voted. The President took some of the heat out of the latter question by submitting the lowest foreign aid request ($3.38 billion) of any Chief Executive since the program began in 1948. Even though the amount requested is still more than the figure actually voted by the last two Congresses, more attention this year will be given to who gets the aid rather than how much is voted.

Of vital importance to the nation in this regard is the question of possible aid for countries such as Egypt and Indonesia. In both of these countries anti-American sentiment has been allowed to run rampant. American property, like the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library in Cairo, has been wantonly destroyed. The American flag has been insulted time and again by unruly street mobs.

The situation has deteriorated further since these countries have been following foreign policy objectives diametrically opposed to those of the United States and the Free World.

THE CASE OF THE Congo is a prime example. There these questionable recipients of American foreign aid immediately supported the cause of the Congo rebels when we rushed our airlift operation to the aid of the Belgian rescue mission around Stanleyville.

Perhaps the congressional sentiment would not be so strong if the governments of the offending countries had had the grace to be more apologetic over the anti-American incidents. But such was not the case. Some spokesmen for the offending governments have preferred to add insult to injury.

Just a short time ago the Indonesian ambassador, Dr. Zairin Zain, went to great lengths to enumerate reasons why the United States should immediately cut off all foreign aid to his country.

In a recent interview Dr. Zain asserted that the costly 15-year U. S. aid program to his country has probably done more harm than good. He described development grants to Indonesia as "humiliating" gifts and said they were given in a way that made the Indonesians "feel like beggars who should be profuse and specific in their thanks."

"The only kind of aid that should be given developing nations is assistance channeled on a multilateral basis through international organizations," Dr. Zain said.

"MOREOVER, THIS aid should be used to augment and expedite a nation's growth. It erodes a nation's character and stability if outside assistance becomes a necessary ingredient of its economy."

"United States troubles with Indonesia are proof enough that bilateral but symmetrical aid is self-defeating."

"Dr. Zain complained in the interview that American aid officials show no appreciation of Indonesian history, no knowledge of its social structure and no sensitivity to its values and feelings. He added that a forward step would be taken if the world 'aid' were forgotten entirely."

If the question were left to the American people there can be little doubt that the word "aid" and all it stands for would most certainly be promptly forgotten as far as Indonesia is concerned. From every conceivable standpoint it makes no sense for the United States to go on pumping money and help into nations that war against their neighbors and do everything in their power to thwart the foreign policy aims of America.

Sheriff's Day

Sheriff C. E. Hester of Madison Parish celebrated a birthday Friday. He was honored at the weekly luncheon of the Tallulah Rotary Club.

Budget Group Ends Early Work

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The legislative Budget Committee ended its first week of work Friday on a spending program for next fiscal year which is expected to exceed $1 billion.

Before quitting for the week-end the 17-member committee heard requests from the Louisiana Art Commission and the State Bond and Tax Board.

The Art Commission requested $27,577, an increase of $3,537 over current year spending, and the Bond and Tax Board requested $18,117, up $666.

Both agencies had been scheduled for hearing earlier in the week, but were put off while the committee received estimates of revenues for the fiscal year starting July 1 from various revenue producing departments and fiscal experts.

The budget committee, in conjunction with Gov. John McKeithen's advisers, is framing a budget to be presented to the May Fiscal Legislature.

Overall Accord Hope Of Dock Talks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — George Reedy, presidential press secretary, said Friday that if the Philadelphia maritime dispute can be settled, "there are rather good prospects for at least a substantial settlement over-all."

Reedy's statement in Washington came as negotiations aimed at settling a 26-day dock strike that has paralyzed the East and Gulf Coasts continued at a nonstop pace Friday with the White House awaiting developments.

Federal Mediator John Murray said, however, before Reedy made his statement that "the bargaining position of both sides is unchanged."

The talks here began at 10 a.m. Thursday, with only two brief recesses.

Murray described the talks between representatives of Local 1291 of the International Longshoremen's Association and the Philadelphia Marine Trade Association as "intense and vigorous."

Reedy did not go so far as to say President Johnson had any assurances that a settlement in Philadelphia would start striking dock workers back on the job at Atlantic ports generally. He did say that all reports have justified the idea that Philadelphia is the key to the situation and since negotiations are continuing, the White House is awaiting developments.

Asked whether the administration is contemplating any legislation, Reedy said that "certainly we are not thinking in terms of legislation." There have been suggestions that Congress act to require arbitration. Murray and James J. Renolds, assistant secretary of labor, have been meeting with both sides.

The bargaining positions centered on the union's demand for a guaranteed annual wage and the shippers' insistence on greater flexibility in the assignment of longshoremen between ships and piers in the port.

The strike has caused losses of millions of dollars daily, left hundreds of ships anchored in rivers at docks, and forced the closing of factories and mills.

Some 60,000 longshoremen are affected. In addition to Philadelphia, local disputes in Galveston, Tex., Miami, Fla., and Hampton Roads, Va., are delaying a full settlement.

Local 1291 here, which represents 2,500 dock workers, is seeking to make a breakthrough on the guaranteed annual wage issue.

AFTER PRESIDENCY

Johnson Planning To Help Youth

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told 102 high school students Friday that when he retires from the presidency he wants to devote himself to promoting the interest of young people in government.

Johnson, a onetime school teacher, was supposed to greet the visiting students very briefly, but he seized the occasion to make a lengthy off-the-cuff address.

The students, representing high schools in all parts of the country, are spending a week in Washington. They are learning about government as participants in the Senate youth program, sponsored by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

Johnson, who has rarely, if ever, talked publicly about his plans for retirement, spoke with obvious emotion about a desire "try to arrest, inspire and promote young people's interest in their government" after he leaves public office.

Talking sometimes in a low voice, he also spoke of some future plans being worked out with his wife, Lady Bird, that would involve young people. He said he didn't want to be seclusive, but felt it would be premature to announce the idea they have in mind.

Mrs. Johnson showed up at the ceremony in the White House, toward the end of Johnson's impromptu talk. He introduced her, and she told the youngsters she envied them because they had "more years to participate in the great things that may take place in the next decades." She expressed hope they would return home with "a lot of interesting and yeasty ideas."

The White House had said in advance that Johnson would only shake a few hands at the affair, and would not stand in a receiving line. But he insisted on a receiving line, and shook every hand in the room, as did the First Lady. And daughter Lynda, returning from her classes at George Washington University, also joined in.

Johnson said he envied the leaders of the Hearst organization because, in promoting student study of government, they were doing what he wants to do. He recalled that, around 1940, President Franklin D. Roosevelt called him to the White House, and directed him to keynote a national convention of young people at Lexington, Ky.

"I have already prepared your speech for you," FDR told Johnson, and said it would develop the theme that American young people must become as fanatical and dedicated about democracy as the youth of Nazi Germany were about their totalitarian form of government.

Gesturing for emphasis, Johnson restated this theme in a present-day setting. He went on to talk about the importance of education, the interest of the public in helping to improve the country, and concluded by saying that the important thing was that America "move forward," despite differences, arguments and debates.

BIRTHDAY INTERVIEW

Stevenson Asserts Dues Point Unclear

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, summing up his views for his 55th birthday Friday, said some nations "don't even perceive what's involved" in the U.N. financial crisis and some don't care.

But he expressed confidence he United States can muster the needed two-thirds vote in the General Assembly in any showdown with the Soviet Union in the matter of money and the right to vote.

In a far-ranging interview with The Associated Press, the chief U.S. delegate said the organization can't stand still. He said Red China is trying to break up the United Nations; expressed belief U.N. troops pulled out of the Congo too soon; and declared he has no present intention of leaving the United Nations although he finds his job more than of executing policy than making it.

Stevenson said the dispute over paying U.N. peacekeeping dues is between "those who want to preserve the organization intact and those who don't, or don't care, or who don't even perceive what's involved."

The Soviet Union, France and 11 other countries under Article 19 of the charter stand to lose their votes in the assembly because they are two years behind in their peacekeeping assessments. They hold the assessments were illegal because they were adopted by the assembly instead of the U.N. Security Council.

The assembly meets Monday and Stevenson said it may set up a new committee to negotiate on the whole subject of peacekeeping. He said the assembly might then recess to let the committee work but added: "In our country, we would like as short a postponement as possible, because if there is going to be a permanent solution it ought to be reached quickly. The date I hear about most is May 1" for reconvening.

Asked if he thought other dissatisfied countries might withdraw from the United Nations now that Indonesia has set the example, Stevenson replied:

"I think this is always a problem, and now the ice is broken it's a hazard. Either this organization gets stronger and the reliance upon it continues to be universal, or it's going to get weaker."

Stevenson said there was "strong leadership from the Chinese Communists to break up the organization because it is a peacekeeping organization, or because it doesn't promote the ambitions of the Chinese Communists. But I don't apprehend much trouble from that source."

Some other questions and answers:

Q. What do you think was the reason the United Nations pulled out of the Congo last June? Was it financial or political?

A. I think that essentially it was financial and the difficulty of sustaining the forces in the Congo. If you remember, when the Indians indicated they would have to pull out after the Chinese attack there was difficulty getting troops from other countries. I regret very much that the Africans didn't say: "This is our responsibility and we're going to help matters here and work with the Congolese."

A. I never use the word "never" about things because circumstances can change. I think the problem is one that rests largely with the great powers. The refusal of two permanent members of the security council, one of whom (the Soviet Union) voted for it, to contribute to its support has presented the basic problem of the future of major peacekeeping operations.

Q. The Security Council is paralyzed by the veto and the General Assembly by the financial deadlock. If Indonesia started a big attack on Malaysia tomorrow, what could the United Nations do to stop it?

A. There are certainly some things it could do. It could call on the combatants to stop, cease-fire and negotiate. If that was frustrated by a veto, possibly the General Assembly could have a meeting where the veto wouldn't apply.

Q. People sometimes say that the United Nations couldn't stop a war between big powers.

A. That's always been its frailty. That was recognized at San Francisco, that the organization probably could not impose its will on a great power. But it's the little wars that start the big ones. After all, it did stop an armed conflict involving the big powers in the case of Suez.

Q. You have been at the United Nations for more than four years now. How much longer do you intend to stay?

A. That's a subject really haven't grappled with. I have thought that in anything you're doing there comes a logical time to move on and do something else. But I haven't seen that yet. It just doesn't seem to have arrived. You just live from crisis to crisis, you know. But to answer your question, I have no present intention of leaving.

ALTITUDE MAYBE?

Inebriated Official In Hot Water Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — One drunken American at a swank international dinner party in Bogota can leave "a pretty bad taste in the mouth," Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, says.

Hays mentioned the incident Thursday at a public hearing, and gave further details in an interview Friday.

He said he had made an unannounced inspection trip to the Colombian capital last week and while there he attended a dinner at the home of a high Colombian official. A number of top American and Colombian government figures also were present.

Hays said one American "got drunk and proceeded to tell us what he thought of us," including Colombians, Congress and anything else that came to mind.

"I got him shipped out of the country the next day, but the damage was done," Hays said. Hays described the incident to David E. Bell, head of the foreign aid program, who was testifying on the foreign aid bill. Hays made clear that the drunken man was not an aid official, but declined to identify him.

In a later interview, Hays said the man worked for another government agency and had been sent to Bogota to make an inspection or survey of some kind.

"I don't want to pillory the man in the newspapers," Hays told a reporter. "Maybe it was the altitude. I'm willing to give him the benefit of the doubt."

Hays explained that Bogota is at an elevation of 8,600 feet and newcomers are warned that alcohol packs a terrific wallop in the rarefied atmosphere.

Hays said the man "pontificated" at the dinner party, embarrassing everyone present by telling in a loud voice how he was going to run his program — which Hays did not identify — regardless of what Colombians or congressmen or anyone else thought about it.

Hays also said in the interview he "got the impression AID is overstaffed for the amount of good that is accomplished."

He hastened to add that AID — Agency for International Development — has several worthwhile programs in Colombia and that he got a favorable impression of the work of Peace Corps volunteers there.

At the end of Thursday's hearing, Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N.J., entered a reply "for the record" to Hays' earlier statement.

Gallagher said he "dropped in on several countries" last year and found that the "people were all there who were supposed to be there" and that the Americans abroad were "industrious and careful."

"They were all sober, too,"

Public Meeting Of State Tourist Group Set Here

The spring and summer advertising program of the Louisiana Tourist Development Commission will be formulated at a meeting next Wednesday in Monroe.

The 10 a.m. session at the Rendezvous Restaurant will be led by Commission Chairman Wade O. Martin, the Louisiana secretary of state. The meeting and a dutch treat luncheon will be open to the public, with local officials and Chamber of Commerce representatives especially invited.

Martin has predicted the group will launch "the most advanced program of tourist development ever put together in any state."

A full commission attendance is expected, officials noted. Gov. John J. McKeithen is an ex officio member, but it was not certain if he will come.

Passman Says Highway Plans In Early Stages

A proposed north-south federal highway from Kansas City to Baton Rouge is in the "very primitive stages," Congressman Otto E. Passman said Friday.

The Fifth District solon, who serves on the House appropriations committee, said the highway "may never materialize."

"It is pure speculation where and when the highway will be constructed, but I am receiving numerous telephone calls and contacts regarding the matter," he said.

Several state officials have mentioned plans by the federal government to build a highway from Kansas City to Baton Rouge apparently to come through North Louisiana between Monroe and Shreveport.

"It is obvious that as a member of the Congress and as a member of the committee that would appropriate the funds for such a highway I shall leave nothing undone to see that the highway is properly located, if it ever comes to pass," Passman said.

He pointed out that a desirable route would be through Union Parish from Arkansas, going south in the Monroe area.

But he added, "To predict early approval of such a project would serve only to confuse the people and to cause speculation that would result in the ultimate loss for some people."

"Therefore, I shall not issue any statement of encouragement until the proper time," Passman said.

He plans to return to Washington today after spending several days in the district.

REPUBLICANS PROTEST

Aid To Education Gets First Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's far-reaching school aid bill cleared its first obstacle in Congress, winning approval Friday of a subcommittee.

The $1.26-billion measure, aimed primarily at improving the educational opportunities of impoverished children, was endorsed by all six Democrats on the subcommittee.

The three Republican members stayed away in protest against what one of them called the "hasty, superficial" treatment given the bill by the subcommittee.

Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said the subcommittee met Saturdays and late into the night, cramming in 10 days of hearings before going to work on the drafting of a bill Wednesday.

A string of amendments was approved Thursday by the Democrats and the bill was sent along to the full committee Friday morning.

Most changes are designed to meet criticism that the bill weakens the constitutional barrier separating state and church.

The chief change deals with a controversial proposal to make $100 million available to the states to buy textbooks and library books for public and private schools.

The subcommittee provided that title to all such books must remain with a public agency, state, federal or local. The books could be used by all children and teachers, as public library books now are used.

Another change requires that grants to set up supplementary education centers — for which $100 million is authorized — must go to a public education agency.

The bill states that such centers must be administered by boards broadly representative of the "cultural and educational resources of the area," including private schools, art galleries, museums and educational television stations.

Largely unchanged is the major part of the bill — a billion-dollar authorization to improve the educational opportunities for children of families with annual income of less than $2,000.

More restrictive languages, making sure that the funds are administered by a public agency, was added, but in order to get a grant the local agency must pledge that educational services will be made available to poor children in private non-profit schools.

The subcommittee also increased from $10 million to $25 million the amount of money to be granted to the states to help them strengthen their departments of education.

De Gaulle 'Misunderstood'

BONN, Germany (AP) — A government spokesman said Friday President Charles de Gaulle's "Europeans only" solution for German reunification did not rule out four-power responsibility.

The West German position long has been that the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and France, the victorious powers of World War II, bear responsibility for German unification.

De Gaulle told a news conference in Paris Thursday that German reunification is a problem to be solved only by Europeans, by implication leaving out the United States.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's spokesman, press chief Karl Guenther von Hase, told a news conference De Gaulle had been misinterpreted. He said De Gaulle had failed to mention four-power responsibility because he had discussed the question in broad, historical outline.

But Ernst Majonica, a foreign policy expert in Erhard's Christian Democratic party, seemed inclined to take De Gaulle at his word.

"Not one of the four victorious powers can be released from its responsibility," Majonica said. "We must point out that without the power of the United States this question is not solvable."

Von Hase insisted that "all the important elements of reunification policy" of France and Germany are the same. The opposition Socialist party found this hard to believe.

"How the government spokesman could greet the French president's remarks as agreeing with Bonn policy must remain his secret," the party declared in a statement.

The party said De Gaulle, by failing to mention four power responsibility and making no mention of Atlantic partnership with the United States, had "turned his back on the principles adhered to until now by the Western nations."

Two other De Gaulle proposals ran into opposition in London. These were a five-power conference including Red China to take a new look at the U.N. charter and a scrapping of the dollar and pound in international finance in favor of a return to the gold standard.

Informed government sources said the proposal that the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and Red China meet on the U.N. problem at Geneva was premature. They pointed out Nationalist China holds the U.N. Security Council seat.

They also said a return to the gold standard would restrict world trade. They saw all three proposals as part of De Gaulle's campaign to reduce U.S. influence in Europe and the world.

In Taipei, Formosa, Nationalist Foreign Office spokesman Patrick Pichi Sun told a news conference:

"The Chinese Communist regime is not qualified to discuss any matters concerning the United Nations. It is a rebel set-up which resorts to brutal repressive measures at home and pursues an expansionist and aggressive policy abroad. It has been condemned by the United Nations as an aggressor."

City Seeking Way To Help On Housing

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — The Crossett City Council is investigating the possibility of solving its low-cost housing shortage.

With the impending opening of the new plywood mill about May 1, the city is facing an acute shortage of housing for families of low income.

Butler Real Estate and Construction Co. representatives have been in the city and made a survey of salaries and housing needs on the western side of town.

They revealed that nearly half of those contacted had incomes of $150 a month and some even less. Their survey also revealed that more than 60 per cent of the homes surveyed in the area do not have baths or modern plumbing.

This is an area of predominantly Negro homes.

The council has set in motion an investigation of how to go about setting up a housing authority for construction of acceptable homes for low-income families.

Mayor Vaskell Carter has written the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Dallas, Tex., for information on how to go about obtaining federal funds for such a project.

He announced Friday he is awaiting their answer before proceeding further.

Arkansas Man Sentenced Here To Prison Term

In Fourth District Court here Friday, presiding Judge Hilmyer S. Parker sentenced R. C. Webb, 43, of Jonesboro, Ark., to three years in the state penitentiary at Angola for receiving stolen goods.

A sentence of three years in the Ouachita Parish jail was given to Jack Jackson, 23, of West Monroe, for carnal knowledge of a juvenile. His sentence time was to begin from the date of arrest.

The trial of Heaber Lambert, 707 DeLoach street, Rt. 1, of Monroe, who was charged with negligent homicide, was continued until March 3. The charges stem from a wreck on July 28 last summer in which one person was fatally injured.

March 1 was set as the trial date for the case of Jerald Steven Smith, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was charged with unlawful possession of a machine gun. An earlier motion to quash the charge against Smith was overruled.

Judge Jesse S. Heard, in another session of district court, fined Dean H. Brister, 109 Peach street in West Monroe, $50 and costs of court on a plea of guilty to charges of reckless driving.

Invited For Visit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Government announced Friday it has invited Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan to visit the Soviet Union "at any time at his convenience."

The Soviet news agency Tass made the announcement in reporting an exchange of letters between Sato and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Sato visited the United States last month.

AFTER SLASHINGS

Angola Inmates Get Privileges Granted

ANGOLA, La. (AP)—Warden Wayne Allgood said Friday 14 white inmates of the state prison here slashed their forearms with broken glass "to get attention."

The prison warden said he settled grievances of the 14, who had protested denial of privileges.

"They had asked for television privileges and more exercise privileges," Allgood said.

The piece of glass used to slash forearms, he said, was smuggled into the cellblocks. The incident happened Thursday night.

Allgood said he talked with the prisoners and conceded some extra privileges, but "not as much as they asked and no television."

The inmates complained that promises made by officials earlier had not been kept.

Allgood, former Louisiana Tech sociology instructor took over as warden of the prison Feb. 2. He is a former associate warden.

He said he fainted after questioning one of the slashed prisoners Thursday night. He had a bad cold and was ill, he said.

"I think we've got them squared away," Allgood said.

"They complained about having to stay in their cells. But they're there for a reason; they can't get along with each other. We agreed to let them out of their cells once in a while."

The warden said they were "some of the worst trouble-maker prisoners we have."

Most of the cuts were described as minor but some required stitches.

Three of the convicts were serving time for slaying other inmates at the penitentiary. A fourth, serving life for murder, is awaiting trial for a prison slaying.

Allgood said there was no talk of guard brutality from the inmates who slashed themselves.

In 1950, about 50 inmates slashed their heel tendons in protest against prison brutality. The incident touched off a Citizens Committee investigation. This became a major political issue, and former Gov. Robert Kennon was elected in 1952 with a prison reform plank in his platform.

SHOOTS CONSERVATIVE 71

Rod Funseth Goes Into Lead At Bob Hope Desert Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rod Funseth shot a conservative one-under par 71 Friday for a 54-hole total of 206, good enough to make him the leader in the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

In a round where the most spectacular shots unfortunately were disastrous ones, the 31-year-old Funseth, from Spokane, Wash., played the La Quinta Country Club course in 36:35-71.

One stroke back with his third consecutive 69 was Tommy Aaron. He also played the La Quinta course, which is regarded by many as the most challenging of the four clubs in action.

Par for all of the courses — La Quinta, Eldorado, Bermuda Dunes, Indian Wells — is 36-36-72.

Two strokes off the pace were Don January with a 73, Butch Baird, 68, and the second round co-leader, Kermit Zarley, 74.

The other co-leader setting forth Friday, Stan Thirsk, re-treated with a 75 and tied at 209 with Al Geiberger, 68, and Bill Casper Jr., 69.

Jack Nicklaus, one of the pre-tournament favorites, shot a 69, after a pair of 71s in previous rounds, for 211. He was tied with Johnny Pott and Terry Dill, who had 70s, and Doug Sanders, 72.

Arnold Palmer, who had one costly shot among the many around the area, finished with a 72 and a tie in the 212 bracket.

ALTHOUGH IT looks like the start of some sort of demonstration, in reality it was the beginning of the West Monroe Cross Country meet which was held Friday afternoon. Minden finished first in the meet. West Monroe was second. The Tide had 38 points and the Rebs finished with 48. (Staff photo by Richard Greene)

'LIKE MY METS'

Houston's Dome Stadium Unbelievable Says Casey

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

HOUSTON (AP) — National Leaguers are proud of New York's $25 million Shea Stadium but when they see what Houston has done with $31.6 for baseball and other games to beat the heat, rain and mosquitoes they will flip their lids.

The Astrodome, where the Houston Astro (formerly Colt .45s) this year will play 81 National League games on 75 dates, including 61 nights, is so fantastic that even Casey Stengel was left aghast before remarking:

"It's unbelievable, phenomenal, something out of this world — like my Mets."

The 74-year-old pilot practically drooled when he heard spellbinding ex-mayor Roy Hofheinz, president of the Houston Sports Association, spin out such details as:

"Sixty-six hundred tons of air conditioning to move 2.5 million cubic feet of air per minute to combat a fight mob smoking its brains out."

"Thirty-six concession stands and five restaurants."

"Two — ply Lucite material used in bomb bay blisters and jet fighter canopies, with no shadows, for the roof."

"Seats of red nylon for 46,

000 at baseball, and facilities to empty the stadium in eight minutes."

"Parking area that can empty 30,000 cars in 22 minutes."

"Dugouts 120 feet long with 65 per cent of the seats behind dugouts. These will be covered by steel, dirt and turf for football. The steel stands can be moved by buttons in 27 minutes to increase seating to 53,000."

"There are 7.5 million pounds on the dome which is built to allow for a shift of six to seven inches."

"It is 207 feet, 10 inches high at the dome. Atop this is a cupola with a weather bureau station. A total of 1,206 valves control air and heat at a cost of $300,000."

"It has nine levels, 53 carpeted club rooms and boxes selling on a five-year basis with lavatories, television, stock reports, telephones, radio, private lockers and advance game information."

"For those who want to go first class the boxes will cost $15,000 a year or $75,000 for five years. We think we have a lot of first class people in Houston who want to see baseball and yet avoid crowds."

After which banker-manager Stengel remarked:

"I think I'm in the wrong business."

These are just a few of the highlights of the domed stadium for which the Houston Sports Association pays an annual rental of $750,000. The HSA also pays operating costs and that will be considerable because 1,906 floodlights probably will be used four hours per attraction, and the number of employees to push buttons will run into the hundreds.

Nobody knows yet how many home runs will be hit in the Astrodome. None will be hit out of it. But when they are hit the $2 million scoreboard will put Chicago, Cleveland and Kansas City shenanigans to shame.

As the home run hitter circles the bases here's what is supposed to happen:

Two cowboys come out dancing and shooting up the scoreboard as the slugger nears first base. On the way to third the runner, if he turns toward center field, will see a bull with his nostrils spurring defiance at the opposing pitcher. And, as the runner nears home the cowboys probably will shoot out all the scoreboard lights.

This scoreboard satire of the once-sacred home run will require only 40 seconds.

Let's hope the "cowboys" have good aim and let's hope the ninth-place Astros do better than last year. They hit only 70 home runs, lowest total in both leagues, in 1964.

Now you see why the foul lines in this baseball Taj Mahal are 340 feet. Old Colt Stadium had 360-foot foul lines and even the mosquitoes had trouble flying that distance.

RHODES PAVES WAY

Indians' Freshmen Top Bulldogs, 85-60

Northeast State used hot streaks in the final 10 minutes of each half to defeat Louisiana Tech, 85-60, in a freshman game contest at Brown Gym Friday night.

The victory evened Northeast at 5-5 while it was Tech's third loss in 10 outings.

After trailing by four points early in the first half, Northeast got hot behind by Chris Rhodes and slowly built a lead which stretched into a 14 point half-time margin, 37-23.

Rhodes, who finished the night with 21 points to lead all scorers, netted field goals on tips, driving layups and long jumpers during his fine first half effort. The big Monterey product also finished with 15 rebounds for the game.

Ouachita Places Both Teams In Semifinal Round

Ouachita's girls and boys teams won Friday games to advance to today's semifinals in the Ouachita Parish Junior High tourney.

The girls will meet Logtown at 10 a.m., while the boys take on Southside at 11 a.m. Other semifinal games match Caldwell with Ferriday in a boys' game at 1 p.m., and the West Monroe girls against Sterlington at 2 p.m.

The host girls nosed St. Paschal, 29-26, with Massengill contributing 19 points to the Ouachita score.

The boys stomped the St. Paschal team, 41-15, as Smith netted 10 markers.

Caldwell's boys dropped West Monroe, 42-33, with Dante hitting 14 markers. In the other boys' tilt played, Southside smashed Logtown, 65-11, as Ezernack scored 17 points, and Ferriday eased past the Lee team, 37-18, with Jones and Campbell leading the way with 10 each.

Consolations will be held at 5 and 6, while the finals are set for 7 and 8.

Groseclose Will Be Speaker At Coaches Clinic

Bob Groseclose, Northeast State's track and cross country coach, will be the featured lecturer at the Fair Park Track Coaches Clinic at Fair Park High School in Shreveport today.

Groseclose will lecture on the pole vault and the hurdles at the clinic. He has coached world record holders in both events, John Pennel in the vault and Don Styron in the hurdles.

Roger Mann, a former Fair Park star who was one of the nation's fastest freshmen hurdlers last spring at Northeast, will accompany Groseclose and perform in demonstrations.

Groseclose has one of the country's more impressive coaching records, both at the high school and college level. His seven teams at Abilene, Tex., High won 51 of 65 meets and three state championships. His Northeast teams have won 31 of 47 meets and three Gulf States Conference titles in four years. In cross country, his Northeast teams have won four GSC championships and have a 24-11-2 record, giving Groseclose a grand total of 106 victories, 41 defeats and two ties.

Daily Double

Rusty Gun paid $14 in the first race and Kris U paid $69 in the second.

Hole-In-One Is Carded By Pro

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Pro golfer Jerry Krueger of Redlands, Calif., scored a hole-in-one Friday in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, on the 174-yard seventh hole at La Quinta Country Club.

Krueger used a two iron. There was no bonus attached to the feat.

Oddly enough, one of Krueger's amateur partners, Arch Haynes of Shreveport, La., had a hole-in-one in the tournament Wednesday at the Indian Wells Club.

January came to the 17th hole at La Quinta, needing only par for the last two to go into the lead. But he hit out of bounds and wound up with a triple bogey 7.

Palmer, who had scored 70-70 in the first two frames, was even par at Eldorado until he hit a ball that lodged high in a palm tree to the right of the fairway. Palmer and his army searched without success to locate the ball, not knowing that it was still up in the tree.

Finally, Palmer accepted what amounted to a two-stroke penalty and continued his play.

Champagne Tony Lema, the British Open champion, again found that he has no fondness for water. He hit into the lake on the 18th hole at Eldorado, came up with a double bogey 7 and finished with a 77 for 216.

A hole-in-one was registered by Jerry Krueger of Redlands, Calif., on the 174-yard seventh hole at La Quinta. He did it with a 2-iron but finished with a 79 for 221.

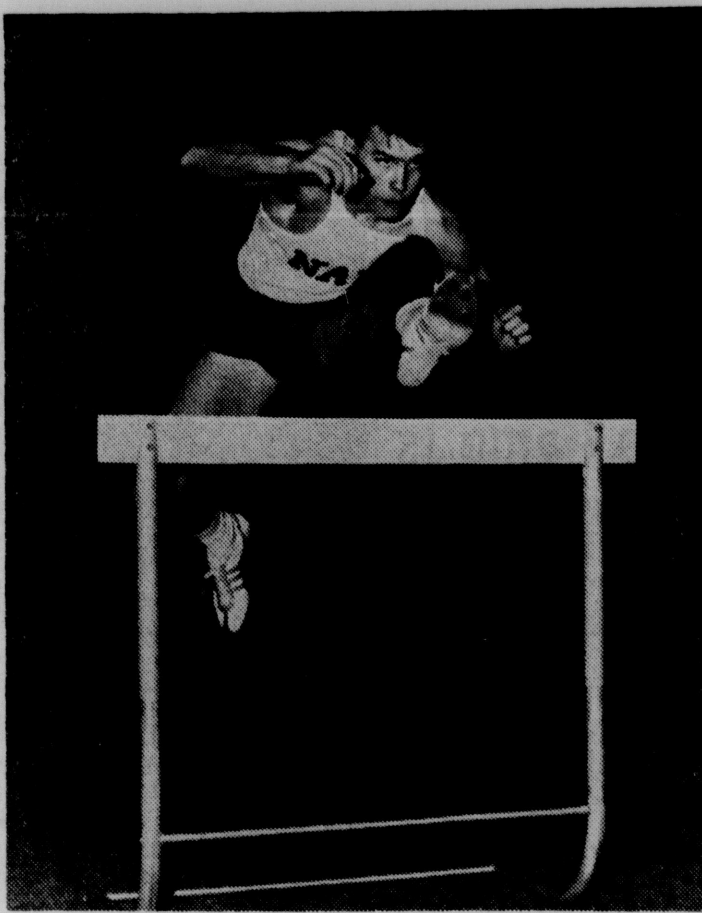

It happened that one of his amateur partners was Arch Haynes of Shreveport, La., who had a hole-in-one Wednesday at Indian Wells. There was no bonus award for either player.

Jimmy Demaret, who tied for the Classic title and lost in a playoff to Tommy Jacobs last year, missed his tee-off time "for the first time in 40 years," and was disqualified. He said one of his amateurs had unwittingly given him the wrong starting time and he actually sat in a nearby coffee shop early Friday morning killing time until what he thought was the proper moment.

John Lotz of Hayward, Calif., who had an 83 in the first round, 63 the next, shot a 71 Friday for 217.

COURTLAND GRAY, former Neville hurdler, took a giant step toward prominence in the United States track picture by grabbing a surprise first place at the Boston Athletic Association meet last Saturday. Gray's first move toward becoming a hurdler was in 1960 when he was a volunteer to run at Neville.

AT NEVILLE HIGH

Courtland Gray Was Volunteer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (Special) — Courtland Gray's first step toward becoming a hurdle champion was a small one.

It was 1960 and the track coach at Neville High School was looking for volunteers.

"Coach needed someone to run in the hurdles so I stepped forward," Gray reported. "There were fellows faster than I in the sprints so I thought I'd try something else."

Not too many have been faster than Gray over the hurdles. In Boston last week-end, Courtland tied the Boston Athletic Association record for the 45-yard high hurdles with a clocking of 5.5 seconds.

"I was running scared," the senior Midshipman explained. "I wasn't even conscious of anyone else running. It was a couple of lickety splits, a couple of bounds, and it was all over."

Gray also owns the Naval Academy indoor record for the 60-yard high hurdles (7.2 seconds) in a trial heat vs. William & Mary and West Virginia this year) and the outdoor mark for the 440-yard intermediate hurdles.

In dual meets this indoor season, Gray has won 60-yard high hurdles in every race he has tried his speciality. He also has a first and a third in the 60-yard dash to his credit. In addition, Courtland runs the anchor leg for Navy's mile relay aggregation, which had already clocked 3:19.2 this season.

Coach Jim Gehrdes is lavish in his praise of the Monroe, La., senior.

Minden Winner Of Rebel Cross Country Meet

West Monroe's Larry Beebe battled Tommy Smith of Oak Grove to finish first in the West Monroe cross country meet but Minden placed six in the top 15 finishers to take team honors.

Beebe finished with a time of 9:22.3 with Smith coming across in 9:22.5. Minden took the top score of 34 with host West Monroe taking second with 48 points.

Other teams finishing were Winnfield, 103; Neville, 105; and Oak Grove, 109.

Individual finishers behind Beebe and Smith were Ken Cooper of Minden, third; Wayne McClain of Winnfield, fourth; and David Langley of Minden, fifth.

The meet was a 1.9 mile run around the West Monroe track, sponsored by the West Monroe Recreation Department.

AS ASSISTANT

Morrison Stays At West Monroe

Lowell Morrison, West Monroe High School assistant coach under Cecil Pirkey, will remain in his position, according to new head coach and athletic director, Walter Brister.

Coach Brister also said that one of his former assistants at Pineville, Cliff Stringfield, is expected to assume assistant duties at the school early next week.

The Rebels are already in the midst of spring training.

After Friday's workout, Coaches Brister and Morrison jointly confirmed Morrison's position with the Rebels.

Coach Brister also said that he didn't expect any other additions to the West Monroe coaching staff, "before next fall."

The announcement of Morrison's position brings to a close expected changes in the coaching staff since the resignations of former coaches, Pirkey, Dan McClure, Johnny Huntsman, and Al Nicotia.

Speaking of the changes since he took over as head coach, Brister said, "The spirit of co-operation I have received from Coach Pirkey and everybody concerned has been wonderful."

The new coach said the first few weeks of the current training session is being spent on fundamentals.

Morrison, who will assume defensive duties for the Rebels, is the father of two children and resides with his family at 304 Gulfa in West Monroe.

Roman Brother, Chateaugay Set For Big Races

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roman Brother, top contender for the 1964 3-year-old crown, and Chateaugay, on the comeback trail after winning the 1963 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes, top a list of 48 handicap thoroughbreds named for Saturday's four major horse races.

The two name horses head a field of 13 in the 1 1/8-mile semi-nole Handicap at Hialeah Park. Thirteen sprinters also were named for the six-furlong Southern Maryland Handicap, which inaugurates Bowie's stakes program.

The 1 1/4-mile Santa Margarita for fillies and mares at Santa Anita and the 1 1/16-mile Louisiana Handicap at New Orleans' Fair Grounds attracted 11 each.

With 13 starters the Seminole will be worth $65,800, with $42,770 going to the winner. Chateaugay, a disappointment in the recent Royal Palm after a victorious 1965 debut, and Roman Brother, training well following two failures at Santa Anita, pick up top weight of 124 pounds each.

They'll give three pounds to the sharp Suspicious, winner of the Tropical Park Handicap last month, four to the ever-dangerous Knightly Manner and five to Sunstruck, winner of the Royal Palm.

Batteur, chestnut daughter of Bold Ruler who won the recent Santa Maria at Santa Anita and one division of the Santa Margarita last year, is the high-weight of the stylish line-up for the West Coast track's feature. She packs 122 pounds and will be ridden by Manuel Ycaza.

Arrayed against her will be Affectionately and Chop House, who finished in a dead heat in the Las Flores. Chop House takes up 118 pounds and Affectionately 120 with Bill Shoemaker in the saddle. Affectionately will be coupled with Petticoat and Treacher. All are trained by Hirsch Jacobs.

Bonny Johnny goes after this second straight victory in the Southern Maryland under top-weight of 123 pounds. Exclusive Nashua and Amastar, a pair of proven sprinters making their seasonal debuts, carry one pound less.

Lemon Twist, with top assignment of 122 pounds, gives from three to 14 pounds to his rivals in the Louisiana 'Cap. Shoot Luke, last year's winner, gets in with 114.

Jonesboro Romps

JONESBORO (Special) — Jonesboro upped its district 2-AA record to 3-1 here Friday night, trouncing Winfield 81-20.

The J-H Tigers, who were in front 31-5 after one period and 51-6 at intermission, were led by Billy Hogg with 10 points. Jimmy Skain had eight for Winfield.

Tommy Wilson scored seven points to pace Jonesboro's 46-16 "B" game win. Clinton Roberts had five for the visitors.

The two teams play at Winfield next Tuesday night.

Franklin Play

GILBERT (Special) — Winsboro, Ogden, Fort Necessity and Wisner boys teams all took second round wins in the Franklin Parish tournament here Friday night with the final round slated today.

Winsboro topped Central of Delhi, 56-37 with Denny Taylor hitting 15 for the winners and Bill Cocerham 17 for the losers.

Ogden stopped Baskin 81-40 with Richard Sasser and Joe Eubanks getting 14 each for Ogden and Landel McKeithen 24 for Baskin.

Fort Necessity took a 64-55 victory over Crowville with Charlie Gallagher leading the way with 30 points and Gayle Ashley hitting 17 for Crowville.

Wisner defeated Gilbert 52-36 with Bert Hammonds and Walter Beach each sinking 14 for Wisner and David Cooper 12 for Gilbert.

Today's games include: Ogden girls vs. Crowville at 9 a.m.; Gilbert girls vs. Winsboro at 10:30; Ogden boys vs. Wisner at 12 noon; Fort Necessity vs. Winsboro boys at 1:30 p.m.; and finals beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Calvin Wins

CALVIN (Special) — Calvin took a 72-62 non-district victory over Coushatta here Friday night.

Four boys hit double figures for the winning five. They were Mackey Carpenter with 19, Johnny Canerday and Marvin Durbin with 17 each, and Lanis Carpenter had 12.

Jimmy Jowers had 21 and Floyd Sledge 16 to pace Coushatta.

In a B boys game, Calvin topped Coushatta 61-53 and in the girls game, Coushatta won, 53-35.

Marion Wins 34th

MARION (Special) — Marion won its 34th game of the year and 10th district win against no losses by downing Sterlington, 87-59, here Friday night.

Bobby Reagan, Bennett Taylor and Gray Taylor had 21 points each to pace Marion, who won the northern half of 3-B and meet the second place team of the southern half on Feb. 16.

In a girls game, Marion won, 58-34. Karne Benford had 28 to lead Marion while Jackie Dumas had 15 points for Sterlington.

Catahoula Play

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — Block of Jonesville blasted Sicily Island, 71-29 in boys varsity action of the Catahoula Parish basketball action here Friday night.

In girls varsity play, Sicily Island dropped a 60-51 decision to Enterprise and Central of Larto topped Jonesville, 55-45.

Peggy Wiley hit 25 for Larto; Nelda Johnson 27 for Jonesville; Peggy Krause 21 for Sicily Island; Cassels 26 for Enterprise; Kenneth Foster 14 for Block and Larry Ezell 14 for Sicily Island.

Ten other games were played in the tourney ranging from elementary to junior varsity contests.

West Carroll

EPPS (Special) — Forest and Epps girls teams and Oak Grove and Kilbourne boys teams moved into the finals of the West Carroll Parish basketball tournament here Friday night.

Epps girls topped Kilbourne 37-47 with Carolyn Butts and Mary Davis each sinking 23 for Epps. Diane Edwards had 22 for Kilbourne.

The Kilbourne boys stopped Epps, 71-60 with Roger Anderson hitting 24 for Kilbourne and Larry Sims 28 for Epps.

Oak Grove took a 56-48 victory over Forest with Mike Gammill leading the way with 28 markers and Tony Kelly hitting 22 for Forest.

In today's finals, the Forest and Epps girls meet at 6:30 p.m.

Season Ends

QUITMAN (Special) — Glenmora closed out the Quitman basketball season on a sour note here Friday night by taking a 63-59 decision over the hosts.

The B team, however, took a 51-43 victory and closed out its season with a 15-1 record.

The loss kept Quitman from a winning season and left the team at 19-20 for the year.

Carroll Rhymes hit 23 points to pace the Quitman B team and Don Morgan had 13 for Glenmora.

Bob Slaughter with 23 and Gary Love with 21 led the Glenmora varsity with James Lowe hitting 16 and Sharky Lynde 14 for Quitman.

Three Way Tie

RAYVILLE (Special) — Rayville's girls put the northern half of District 2-A into a three-way tie here Friday night with a 40-35 victory over Tallulah.

The Tallulah boys downed the Hornets, 74-50 to send Rayville into a sure third place with one district game remaining.

Jean Ellington hit 20 points for the Rayville girls with Judy Fairbanks dropping in 13 for Tallulah. Don Ater sparked the Trojan lads with 28 markers and Charles Germany put away 21 for Rayville.

Bossier Wins

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Bossier, the District 1-AAA pre-season favorite, jumped back into that role Friday night by snapping a 22 game Fair Park home court winning streak with a 44-36.

The Bearcats used an effective stall for the final 5:30 minutes to protect a 36-30 lead which was almost cut to two when Ronnie Hollis converted a steal into a layup and Dick Hicks came through with another theft only to see his shot from the side rim the basket and come out.

Bossier is now 29-5 overall and 7-2 in the district, one-half game behind league leading Neville.

Fair Park is 21-8 for the year and its 8-3 loop record holds down third place.

Neville must visit both teams later this month.

Jena Tourney

JENA (Special) — Five games were played here Friday in the Jena Invitational basketball tournament plus one exhibition sophomore game.

In the sophomore tilt, Jena beat LaSalle 63-36 with Paul Zoller netting 23 points. Steve Long had 21 for LaSalle.

Today's schedule pits Winfield against the Pine Prairie girls at 10 a.m., Caldwell vs. the LaSalle boys at 11:15, Jena and Colfax in a girls tilt at 12:30 and Jena vs. Georgetown boys at 1:45. The consolation games begin at 4:30 and the finals start at 7:00.

Colfax's girls won 63-57 as Cora Bormand hit 32 points while the Pine Prairie sextet won its 36th game by topping Vidalia 49-42 behind Linda Fontenot's 21 tallies.

Winfield's girls beat Boyce 63-43 with Phyllis Love scoring 38 and Jena beat Georgetown's girls 77-29 as Mary Allen poured in 28 points.

The Georgetown boys whipped Monterey 65-55 with George Barrett firing in 20 points.

Bonita, 71-51

MONTICELLO (Special) — Bonita, northern champion of district 4-B, defeated Monticello, 71-51, here Friday night.

Leading the way to the win was Ronald Hopkin with 17 points while David McVay paced the Monticello squad with 17.

The Bonita girls toppled Monticello, 48-35, in a preliminary game. Evon Stallings had 16 points for Bonita with Linda Acerman getting 27 for Monticello.

Tioga, 70-50

FERRIDAY (Special) — Tioga defeated Ferriday, 70-50, in a district 3-AA game here Friday night.

In a preliminary tilt, the Ferriday girls took a 53-44 victory. Leading the way for the Ferriday sextet's victory was Hutchinson with 22 while Henderson netted 25 for Tioga.

Don Dotherow had 25 and Ronnie Sellers, 22 to pace Tioga to its third district victory against five defeats.

Dan Richey and Jehu Abraham had 12 each for Ferriday, which dropped its sixth district game against two wins.

St. Joseph Wins

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — St. Joseph swept two games from Newellton here Friday night winning the boys game, 69-49 and taking the girls contest, 60-48.

Francis Hestle hit 34 for the winning girls with Carolyn Goodwin sinking 27 for Newellton.

Billy Green led St. Joseph with 18 markers with Danny Cannon hitting 14 for Newellton.

Eros Gets Two

EROS (Special) — Ray Lewis hit 15 points here Friday night to lead Eros to a 43-38 victory over Sikes with two Eros girls hitting 10 points each to pace the host sextet over Sikes, 27-12.

Diane Thompson and Diane Spillers each hit 10 for the winners with Patricia Pennington leading Sikes with eight markers.

Gary Kidd led all scorers with 20 points for the Sikes boys.

Recreation Basketball

Three games were played Friday in the 8th Grade Division of the Monroe Recreation Department basketball slate.

The Panthers topped the Lions, 10-8, with Cale netting six points while Cagle got six for the Lions.

The Mustangs outscored the Tigers, 23-16. Ogg and Rosenberg had eight each for the winners and Henry had six for the losers.

Thurman scored seven as the Bears nipped the Leopards, 17-10. Bonin netted six for the Leopards.

In Church B League action Winsboro Road Baptists topped Memorial Methodists 25-20 as Manning netted 13 points. Dabbins had nine for the losers.

Ridge Avenue got by Fair Park 35-22 with Browell hitting seven and George got 10 for Fair Park.

Winters scored 19 as Good Hope whipped Claiborne Baptists 33-26. Johnson had 14 for the losers.

Association Not Worried Whether Patterson Quits

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The chairman of the World Boxing Association's championship committee said Friday "it makes no difference whatsoever" to the WBA if Floyd Patterson quits the elimination series for WBA recognition as heavyweight champion.

"It was never a desire as far as we were concerned to have Patterson in this tournament to begin with," said Tony Maceroni of North Providence, R.I. "He was rated No. 2 (in the WBA heavyweight rankings) and we went according to the ratings, instead of personalities, when putting the tournament together."

Two Companies Join To Sponsor Sports Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Two giant corporations that are rivals in manufacturing sports equipment joined forces Friday to sponsor the sports foundation with Bud Wilkinson as president.

The corporations, American Machine and Foundry Co. and the Brunswick Corp., formed the Lifetime Sports Foundation.

Wilkinson described the objective of the foundation as "trying to help where we can across the board in games that last a lifetime."

Wilkinson, who in 17 years at the University of Oklahoma compiled one of the finest football coaching records in the nation, lost in November as Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate from Oklahoma.

"Obviously people cannot enjoy sports participation unless they perform well enough to derive some satisfaction," Wilkinson told a press luncheon. "It will be a basic aim of the foundation to get more people involved in a wide variety of sports, and playing well enough to want to continue."

Wilkinson was formerly director of the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

"I am looking forward with enthusiasm to working with Bud in improving the fitness of youth and adults by increasing sports participation and fitness activities that can be enjoyed throughout life," said Stan Musial, the consultant to President Johnson on Physical Fitness.

The foundation's headquarters will be in Washington but Wilkinson will maintain a residence in Norman, Okla.

Yanks To Have Trouble In '65 Says Joe Cronin

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Yankees "will have their troubles" this year, predicts Joe Cronin, American League president.

While Cronin released the 1965 AL schedule Friday he foresaw problems for the defending champion Yankees, who will be seeking their 15th pennant in 17 years.

"We are going to have another good pennant race in 1965," Cronin said. "There is no possibility whatsoever that the Yankees will run away with the pennant. They were very lucky to win it last year. They will have their troubles this year."

President Lyndon B. Johnson likely will attend the opener Monday, April 12 when Washington is host to Boston. But almost everybody else will get into the act at the same time.

On a most untraditional opening day, New York will be at Minnesota in another afternoon game while Detroit is at Kansas City and Cleveland at Los Angeles at night.

Chicago will play at Baltimore the next day.

There will be a record 445 night games, two more than last year.

Baltimore has the most night games, 60. Los Angeles will set a high mark with 11 scheduled two-night doubleheaders.

SEC Bosses Set Meeting Feb. 25

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Southeastern Conference athletic directors will meet in Birmingham Feb. 25 to put finishing touches on the new round-robin league football schedule, SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore said Friday.

The schedule, which goes into effect in 1970, was approved in rough form at the SEC meeting in Atlanta last month. It provides that the 10 SEC schools, beginning in 1970, will play five traditional rivals every year and two other alternating SEC opponents.

This means every team will play every other member school twice within four years.

Moore said that the schedule approved in Atlanta covered 1970 through 1973 and designated the opponents. To be settled here Feb. 25, he said, are the playing dates and financial arrangements.

BATTLE WITH METS

Downing Gives Sales Pitch To Boost Yank Attendance

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Al Downing, server of fastballs and curves during the spring and summer, is dishing up a sales pitch this winter designed to help the New York Yankees in their baseball attendance battle with the New York Mets.

And the 23-year-old southpaw appears to be talking a good game.

For the past two months he's been working in the Yankees' promotion department, helping to improve ticket sales. The Mets, last-place finishers in the National League, outdrew the Yanks, American League champs, by more than 400,000 last season.

Downing is looking for signs of interest from business firms and is seeking to persuade them to hold a night for their employees at Yankee Stadium this summer. Shortstop Phil Linz, relief pitcher Hal Reniff and batting practice pitcher Spud Murray are doing the same thing.

"Murray and I cover the New Jersey territory and Linz and Reniff work in Manhattan," Downing said Friday. "I've talked to about 15 firms myself and have found most of them receptive."

"A lot of people ask me if we're trying to combat the Mets. I guess that's so because I think this is the first time the Yankees have had ballplayers doing this in the off-season."

"We start off by talking to the firm's personnel director and sometimes we go in and meet the employees. A few of them have told us 'the Mets outdrew you last year and they're going to do it again.'"

"But I think they're impressed that a major leaguer had been asked to come out to talk to them. They also ask a lot of questions about Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, why we lost the World Series and things like that."

Downing supplies most of the answers plus considerable promotional material.

"I carry a complete schedule, plus one listing the preferred dates, such as the Sunday doubleheaders, night games and the holidays," he pointed out. "What we're looking for is a group of 300 or 400 people from each firm. I find that some of the firms prefer to alternate, so that if they had a night at Shea Stadium last season it's our turn this year."

Downing won 13 games and lost eight for the Yanks in 1964 and led the American League in strikeouts with 217.

He expects to leave Feb. 24 for the Yanks' spring training base in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

There, he'll put his left arm to work and give his voice a rest.

FORGET THE PAST

Sadair's Trainer Is Looking Ahead

MIAMI (AP) — Trainer Les Lear looked out toward the Gulfstream Park racing strip where the horses were taking their morning gallops, and not to the stall where Sadair was nursing injuries that ended his racing career.

"You've got to look ahead," he said. "It's like training a football team. You don't look at the fellows in the whirlpool; look at the ones on the field."

Lear, a native of North Dakota and a professional football player and coach before becoming a horse trainer 14 years ago, has known disappointments before but nothing like the one last Monday when Sadair, the world's top money-winning 2-year-old with $498,217 and a promising prospect as a 3-year-old was injured.

"I'm sure it happened in the workout," Lear said. "He's never taken a bad step in his life. He was walking all right when he came off the track, but it was still bleeding then. When the blood stopped, that's when it began to hurt him."

"Disappointed? It was like being run over by a steamroller; like somebody had leaned on me with a sledge hammer."

Mary B. Hecht, Sadair's owner, said the colt suffered a fracture of a bone in his left front leg. She announced that Sadair, Florida-bred son of Petare, will be sent to stud in Lexington, Ky. "It's part of the game," Lear said. "You take the good with the bad. We've got some pretty good prospects, so it's a matter of elimination. We've got Needles' Count, and he can run all day. He won three races last year, and looks pretty good now. He's by Needles."

"And we've got some good looking fillies. There's Native Street, a real nice-looking 2-year-old by Native Dancer."

Lear bought Native Street for $40,000 at the Hialeah sales last month for A. I. Savin.

Sadair was still standing quietly in Stall 23 of Barn W, where he has been since the accident. He is expected to remain there for several weeks before being shipped to Kentucky.

Perhaps the most disappointed person of all was Bill Holborn, 51-year-old former jockey from St. Thomas, Ontario, who exercised Sadair throughout the colt's brief career, and was on him when the foot injury occurred.

"It happened on the track, but we didn't know it until he was back in the barn area," Holborn said.

"I was sick. It hit me hard, right in the pit of the stomach. You get a horse like this once in a lifetime."

Promotion Time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Odell, new football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, named bill Wrabley, his line assistant at Bucknell for seven years, as associate coach Friday.

Odell retained Harry Gamble, Joe Stanczyk and Paul Ribblett of last year's Penn staff as assistants. New men joining the staff are Gene Evans and Jim Roe, two other former Bucknell assistants.

Stubborn George and his freestone water

100 years ago George Dickel stubbornly searched out every nook and cranny of Tennessee's bluegrass till he found the finest freestone water in the world. Born in the mountains, it was, and then filtered by nature for hundreds of miles underground till, as if by miracle, it bubbled up through paper-thin crevices in the rocks around the falls.

George Dickel is the only whisky still made with this freestone water. It always was the lighter, smoother Tennessee sour mash drinkin' whisky.

Still is.

If you have a question you would like answered, write or call "Mr. Editor, Tell Me, Please" at the Morning World and News-Star. We'll be glad to get the information and pass it on to you in this column each Saturday.

What country singer's daughter did Pat Boone marry?

Boone is married to the former Shirley Foley, the eldest daughter of country music star "Red" Foley. Pat met Shirley while both were students at David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn.

What movie was filmed recently in Jackson Square in New Orleans and who were the stars?

The New Orleans Chamber of Commerce reports that the latest of many movies made in Jackson Square was "The Cincinnati Kid," an MGM picture starring Steve McQueen, Tuesday Weld and Ann-Margaret.

Why doesn't the city of Monroe construct a substantial bridge across the canal on Bayou Street?

City officials say they can't answer this question without a specific location of the bridge in question. You should call Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez at city hall and discuss the problem with him.

On several occasions a city (Monroe) employee has been seen in a taxpayer's car license, 23X270 in and around Columbia and Grayson areas with his immediate family with him. The last time he was seen was on a recent Sunday at 2:53 p.m. west of Grayson with his family in the car. Is this a policy for all city employees?

The party referred to is Sidney G. Martin, Assistant Chief of Police, for the City of Monroe. A check with both Chief Martin and Chief James C. Kelly Jr. brought out the following facts, and policies:

The "recent Sunday" referred to, according to Chief Martin was Sunday, Jan. 24, 1965. Martin had gone to a home close to Grayson to get information concerning a case which was under investigation by the police department. The "immediate family" referred to was not his son and daughters, but several other juveniles involved in the case.

Since it was on city business, he was using the police automobile, furnished by the City of Monroe.

However, Chief Kelly said had he not been on city business, he still would have been within his rights to use the car "within 30 miles of Monroe" since he is on call 24 hours a day, from "wherever he is."

Chief Martin said on other occasions such as hunting trips to Caldwell and for strictly personal use, he has, and uses, his family automobile.

Who are the officers of the Louisiana Peace Officers' Association? Are these full-time positions? What are the salaries of each?

Capt. L. C. Taylor of the Monroe police department supplied the following names of officers for the Association: President, Capt. Tom Treadway, Alexandria; 1st vice president, Jerome Haas, Lake Charles, with the Louisiana state police; 2nd vice president, Chief James Cathey of Bossier City police; 3rd vice president, Sheriff Tom Sanders, Amite; Secretary - treasurer, Capt. Alvin Rankin of New Orleans.

The officers are elected each year, and must be carried along with the regular work for the respective departments.

There are no salaries connected with the positions.

What is the education, experience and professional success comparison between the new West Monroe High School coach (head football coach and athletic director Walter Brister) and Coach Pirkey (Coach Cecil Pirkey who resigned recently from the post Brister holds). Will any teachers lose their jobs to allow the new coach to bring his assistants with him?

Taken in order, reports show the following on the questions asked:

Brister holds a bachelor's degree, while Pirkey is the holder of a master's degree. However, school board office sources report that Brister is approximately half finished with graduate work toward his master's and plans to attend Northeast Louisiana State College to continue studies.

As to experience, Pirkey has been in teaching and coaching approximately 25 years, Brister about 15 years.

If by professional success, the questioner means won - lost records, the following data were available:

Pirkey's record, in all games, during his eight years at West Monroe reads 49 - 39 - 3, while for district games in the same period, it reads 23 - 21 - 1. Last season's district record was 2 - 5.

Brister's record includes a 35-6 as assistant coach at Lagrange, a 52 - 18 at Bunkie, and 22 - 17 at Pineville. The overall total compiled from these figures is 109-41. His district record at Pineville last season was 3 - 4.

Concerning teachers losing their jobs, officials explain that teachers gain tenure and none need lose a job but for drastic personal reasons. Coaches, however, may be relieved of coaching duties for which they receive extra compensation, but they may remain as teachers if they wish.

What procedures should be taken to prevent the Ouachita Parish School Board from signing the federal compliance agreement designed to desegregate our schools? Why should our state be under control of the Federal Government because of a so-called free lunch program? Our taxes pay for this.

Officials state categorically that the Ouachita Parish School Board has not signed the agreement, and there is no indication if or when it will. As to procedures to prevent signing, the usual channels are open. Citizens should make their feelings known to their respective board members. Whatever decision ultimately is made will be made by a vote of the school board, and members have said often that they try to vote as the majority as ward residents would wish.

If the state and the Ouachita Parish school system have both adopted the new Laird - Law math books, why hasn't the Monroe City School System adopted them so that the children at Lee Junior High can have math books?

Monroe School Supt. Van D. Odom reports that the math texts were adopted by the city system before the end of the past semester, and that math books are in the hands of every student at Lee. He adds that no student whose curriculum requires a math book is without one.

Officials explained the procedure of adoption of texts. Several texts covering a subject at the proper level are selected and approved by the State Education Department, and all are forwarded to local boards, where selected committees adopt the text which will be used. Therefore, the state does not adopt a particular text.

My question is in two parts. (a) What is the prerequisite for becoming a commissioned officer on the police force. (Civil Service and City Ordinance, if any)? (b) What would be the consequences if a person were wearing the uniform and attempted to make an arrest within the city limits? Would this person have to be commissioned?

(A) There are a number of prerequisites to becoming a member of the police force in Monroe under stipulations of the local Civil Service. No City Ordinance governs the matter.

According to Sidney G. Martin, assistant chief of Monroe police, the person must have a physical examination, be between 21 and 35, have at least a high school education, be a minimum of 5 feet ten inches in height, weigh a minimum of 155 pounds, be of good moral character, have no prior police record, be a registered voter of the state of Louisiana and take the Civil Service examination.

(b) Any duly sworn police officer in full time employment - either on duty or off duty - can make an arrest. If a person wears the police uniform and is not a duly sworn member of the force is an imposter and can be prosecuted for violations of the law, according to Chief Martin.

When and what date did the state start requiring couples to buy marriage licenses?

Marriage licenses have been required ever since Louisiana was admitted as a state in the Union, which was 1812, according to B. S. McRaney, clerk of the court. However, the issuance of a marriage license in Ouachita Parish dates as far back as May 24, 1809.

Why do 45 rpm records have large holes in the centers, whereas records of other speeds have small holes? Are the large holes necessary? If not, why don't the recording companies standardize the holes so that a phonograph will play records of all speeds without spindle alterations?

According to a music store official, the 45 rpm records have large holes because of the speed at which they are recorded. All three sizes are recorded at different speeds and vary in size. Our source said that phonographs are now made to play all speeds. You might write the recording companies and give them your suggestion for standardizing the holes. We couldn't find the answer to that part of your inquiry.

The World for WOMEN

MONROE MORNING WORLD, Saturday, February 6, 1965 — 1-B

GUESTS FROM Norwalk, Connecticut are Mr. and Mrs. David Newton and their young daughter, Hilary, who is a year and a half. Mrs. Newton and Hilary are pictured in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hagaman where they are visiting. Mr. Newton and Mr. Hagaman were classmates at Lawrenceville Prep school in New Jersey. The two families are making the most of a two week stay with a side trip to New Orleans this weekend.

Too Many Accessories Spoil The Evening

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

There are so many pretty and glittering evening accessories for the holidays that the temptation is to get them all. But, as demonstrated at the fall Accessorama in New York, even the loveliest accessories become ridiculous when overdone.

Among the prettiest things seen was Emily Wetherby's white ostrich evening stole, a wrap which has to be worn almost without jewelry, for its effect is dramatic enough alone. Best with it would be Ben-Hur's glitter hair-bow in the Chanel manner, but earrings, bracelets and necklaces, no.

For plain crepe evening dresses, the multi-strand necklace was shown, often with big, gilt textured ball drops. Such a necklace should be worn alone, needing no other jewelry.

The same is true for the drop earrings which were styled for holiday dresses. The biggest of these are like Christmas tree balls, in rhinestones and colored stones, but even smaller drop earrings should not be worn with necklaces.

Bracelets reappeared after a fashion lapse of some seasons. Most dramatic were enamel striped bracelets with rhinestones between the stripes. These can be worn alone or in groups of three or even more. When used in groups, they make a strong accent which needs no other jewelry except, perhaps, relatively modest earrings.

Real Equality Slow Going For Women Execs

BOSTON (UPI) — A prominent educator said at a conference of women's executives here that "gaining real equality for women in business is going to be a patient kind of work designed to show that a woman can do a job equally as well as a man."

Dr. Raymond E. Corey, professor at Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration added: "As individual women prove their merit, employers are going to want to keep them on jobs rather than have them hired away by other companies."

Tete à Tete

FIRST LADIES of five states modeled the gowns they wore in January at President Johnson's inaugural ball for the charity luncheon given by the Mad Hatters in Baton Rouge Tuesday. Mrs. Kedwick Martin brought back the details of the luncheon and the very large reception given that night in the mansion honoring these special guests. With her cello Betty was a member of a trio representing Louisiana Tech, which provided music for the reception. One of the guests requesting a special number, "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," Betty found out later, was Mrs. Orval Faubus. After the guests left Gus Weil, Governor McKeithen's executive secretary, joined the musicians singing several numbers for an informal musicale. Modeling the inaugural gowns were Mrs. Faubus, Arkansas; Mrs. Paul B. Johnson, Mississippi; Mrs. Jack M. Campbell, New Mexico; Mrs. John A. Volpe, Massachusetts and Mrs. McKeithen.

JUST RETURNED from Lebanon, Tennessee where they were guests of Col. and Mrs. Lindsey Donnell and family are Mr. and Mrs. Travis Howard. While there Mr. Howard was invited to speak at chapel time to approximately 600 cadets at Castle Heights Military Academy. The Howards also visited their son, Barney, who is a senior at the Academy this year.

AMONG THE out of town guests arriving for the Pohlman-Ladner wedding today are Mr. and Mrs. John Crump of Lafayette, former residents of Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Clement of Freeport, Texas.

WHEN TO GROUND THE STORK MYTH

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — At age nine, the typical boy or girl knows why the bees buzz and birds hum. So why not level with the youngsters about human sex life? That is the age, according to Dr. Robert N. Rutherford, that sex education ought to begin. The expert from the University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle, told a symposium on "Population Growth" that life facts at that age would help to solve the related problems of junior-high pregnancy, teen-age marriage, and the divorces that terminate half of these marriages.

Rehearsal Supper Honors Guest Lecturer To Appear At Garden Club

After the rehearsal on Friday night for the wedding of Miss Judith Rene Ladner and James Michael Pohlman, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pohlman, entertained the bridal party with supper at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The wedding will be solemnized this morning, Saturday, February 6, at Jesus the Good Shepherd Church.

Miss Ladner, daughter of Mr. Betty Lee Engstrom and Lt. Col. Pat H. Ladner of San Antonio, Texas, wore a yellow silk dress featuring the A line. Silver candelabra were placed at each end of the table and a lovely arrangement of white roses, baby chrysanthemums and larkspur formed the centerpiece.

Guests included Mrs. Engstrom, Col. and Mrs. Ladner, Patrick Ladner, Miss Linda Lee Ladner, Miss Nancy Pittman, Miss Sandra Brown, Rev. Dave Dabria, Rev. Edmund Moore, Mrs. Clyde Burkholder, Mrs. H. E. Norrick, Tommy Knipping, John Burgess, John Parker, Garry Gannaway, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Edmiston and the bridal couple.

SHOWER

The Paul Goldman home, 3600 Deborah Drive, was the setting for a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Ladner, Wednesday evening, February 3.

Serving as hostesses with Mrs. Goldman were Mrs. A. W. Knipping, Mrs. Frank Parrino, Mrs. L. J. Carter, Mrs. Lewis Elias and Mrs. Joe Haddad.

Guests calling between the appointed hours of 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. were greeted by Mrs. Goldman, and received by Mrs. Pohlman, Judy, and Mrs. Engstrom.

Following the red and white theme of Valentine's, their corsages were of red, carnations trimmed with white pearl hearts.

Mrs. Parrino and Mrs. Carter alternated at the punch bowl and Mrs. Knipping poured coffee.

Mrs. Elias and Mrs. Joe Haddad assisted in serving. Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. J. M. Edmiston Jr., Columbia, Miss Linda Lee Ladner, Miss Nancy Pittman, Miss Sandra Brown and Miss Marylin Goldman.

For the shower the honoree, Miss Ladner, wore a grey and white knit sheath with yellow tie.

Guests calling were Mrs. John Carso, Mrs. A. C. Breckenridge, Mrs. A. F. Canizaro, Mrs. J. L. Adair, Mrs. G. Terzolas, Mrs. G. Gannaway, Mrs. J. A. Maggior Sr., Mrs. M. A. Parker, Mrs. M. L. HELM NOVEL FOR SCREEN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Matt Helm novel series will be brought to the movies in "The Silencers" for Columbia.

Charles J. Hudson Jr., of Atlanta, Georgia, Southern regional editor for a gardening magazine, author of two books on gardening and lecturer, will speak at an open meeting of Monroe Garden Club, Monday, February 8 at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Mr. Hudson, who received his B. S. degree in Horticulture at Iowa State University, is a member of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural society and Pi Alpha Xi, honorary floricultural fraternity. His topic for the meeting, to start at 2 p.m. will be "Flowering Shrubs and Trees for Year Around."

A past president of Georgia Horticultural Society and member of International Camellia Society, he is garden editor of the Atlanta Newspapers Inc., and a contributor to leading garden magazines for over 30 years. He is presently general manager of Hastings Garden Center in Atlanta.

A small fee will be charged for non-members of the club attending the lecture.

COMPUTER CAPABILITY

CHICAGO (UPI) — What kind of science fiction is this? You show up to take your driver's test and the examiner tells you to step right up and let the computer evaluate your capabilities!

It's not happening yet and probably won't happen, says Dr. Ross A. McFarland, of Harvard University School of Public Health. But Dr. McFarland notes that computers and other electronic aids will be of considerable value in the future in aiding those responsible for licensing the ever-increasing number of driver applicants.

MRS. LARRY GREEN

Dubach Ceremony Unites Louisiana Tech Students

White chrysanthemums decorated the entrance of the First Baptist Church of Dubach for the wedding last Friday evening of Miss Nancy Hamilton and Larry Green. Myriad white candles, arrangements of white pompons, gladioli and magnolia foliage enhanced the altar where Rev. Dayton Doughy performed the ceremony. Entwined hearts and candle trees with votive lights in ruby red glass completed the setting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Palmer Green, all of Dubach. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hamilton wore a pink silk suit with lace blouse, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink Frenched carnations. Mrs. Green was wearing a sky blue sheath with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Hudson Avery, organist, played appropriate selections as guests were seated by the ushers, Dwayne Mason and Dickie Lewis. Candles were lighted by Miss Janis Trammell and Freddie Hamilton after which Miss Donna Gail Tatum rendered a vocal selection.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white slipper satin overlaid with net and Alencon lace, styled with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and full skirt, terminating in a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her veil of illusion and she carried a white Bible, crested with a cascade arrangement of French carnations, lily of the valley and a white specimen orchid. Her only jewelry was an antique locket.

Attending the bride were Miss Barbara Green, maid of honor and Miss Barbara McGee, Mrs. Diana McGuire, Miss Terri Tatum, Miss Elaine Hamilton and Miss Jayne Trammell, bridesmaids. They wore short brocade dresses in American beauty red with hats and shoes of identical shade and carried circular bouquets of pink French carnations with satin streamers. Miss Donna Till, also dressed in American beauty red, served

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Use Waxed Paper To Iron Out Crease Lines

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

For those whose little girls wear nylon dresses and find after letting the hem down, that even steam pressing doesn't seem to help smooth the crease.

Just put some waxed paper over the crease line, and press it with a warm iron, and watch that wrinkle come out of the nylon dress!

Unsigned

The small amount of wax on the paper melts into the bent fibers of the cloth. It does iron out the wrinkles.

After ironing the creased or wrinkled garment with the waxed paper, remove the paper, and then iron again on both sides to further distribute and melt the wax. Wonderful.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For years I have been irked by the rust that forms in scouring pads, sometimes after using them only once.

Finally, I discovered that instead of dipping my scouring pad in water, I could dip the article to be cleaned in the water, and then use the dry pad to clean it.

By using this method I have been able to use the pads until all the soap is gone, and they never become rusty.

V. Soulerin

LETTER OF LAUGHTER:

Dear Heloise:

I thought I would drop a hint to mothers of curious little toddlers who keep opening bureau drawers, as mine were doing... until I thought of dropping a yardstick down through the drawer handles!

This may not be a pretty sight but it saves a lot of mother's time. This may be done to any chest of drawers or to the kitchen drawers with open handles.

Mrs. LeBane

Dear Heloise:

I had a heavy, long, chenille robe that wore out around the collar and sleeves.

I removed the buttons and cut off the top part of the garment and sleeves, thus getting a beautiful square out of the bottom part. All it took then was hemming on my sewing machine, (one could also do this by hand) and now it is a cozy lap or nap robe. Or it can be used to wrap baby for carrying between the house and the car.

Ceramic Guild Speakers Show Technic Used

The Ouachita Valley Ceramic Guild held its January meeting in the Benoit Recreation Center with John Breazeal, president. Committee chairmen were called upon for reports and a short business session followed.

Mrs. Lloyd Walters, Program Chairman introduced the first guest speaker of the evening, George Porter, who demonstrated from the beginning to completion the making of a mold in which to reproduce ceramic pieces.

The second guest of the evening was, Frank Fragala, who told of his method in obtaining certain colors in glazing a large Fruit Stack, on display for the membership to inspect.

Winner of the door prize, a victorian urn, was won by Mrs. Mildred Duggins.

Special plans are being made for the February meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Audrey Nielson Installed As Worthy Advisor

Miss Audrey Nielson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otha Nielson, was installed as worthy advisor of the Delhi Assembly, Order of the Rainbow, at the January meeting which was held in the Masonic Hall.

Other officers installed were: Sherry Allen, worthy associate advisor; Ann Sikes, hope; DiAnne Hartley, faith; Kathleen Coates, recorder; Shirley Harper, treasurer; Jane Tanner, chaplain; Rebecca Davis, drill leader; Shirley Green, love; Betty Perkins, religion; Carolyn Fitzgerald, nature; Lynn Walker, fidelity; Kathy Irby, patriotism; Betty Weems, confidential observer; Linda Fitzgerald, outer observer; and Sue Fallin Musician. Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald was installed as mother advisor.

Members of the 1965 Advisory Board are Mrs. Otha Nielson, Mrs. Gloria Nielson, Mrs. Myrtle Coates, Mr. Tanner, Mrs. Vivian Dear, Mrs. Nan Norman, Bill Copes, Mrs. Louise Britt, and Julian Chapman.

Installing officer was Mrs. Nan Norman.

Refreshments were served to approximately 85 guests.

After they have been worn, washed, bleached, and get old, a chenille robe is at its best. They make wonderful lap robes.

By turning the nap side down, they snuggle real good to your feet. And most of the extra nap that usually sheds is gone too, eh?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Some of my very pretty and expensive wastebaskets got quite rusty on the inside.

I bought some adhesive-backed plastic paper and lined the entire insides of the wastebaskets with it. Presto! The baskets look clean and new, and can be scrubbed because this paper is completely washable.

This paper comes in all colors, patterns, and designs, and can be matched to any color scheme.

Phyllis Schecheter

Dear Heloise:

Here is a reverse tactic which I find helpful...

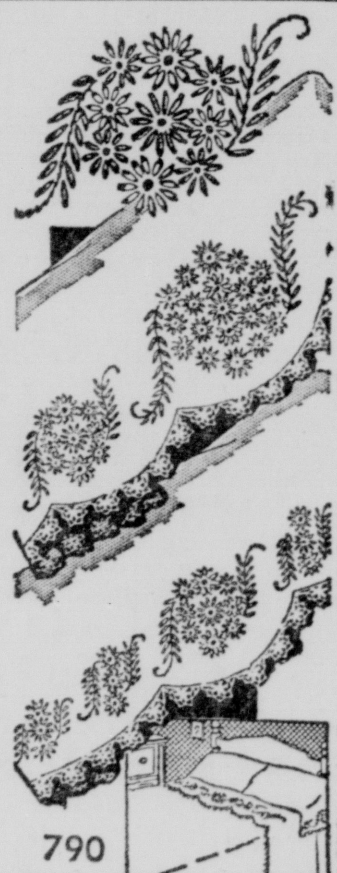

While I am cooking potatoes or macaroni for a salad, I put the dressing in a large bowl, add my favorite seasonings, add all the extra, extra ingredients (onion, cucumbers, etc.) then refrigerate.

By the time the potatoes (or macaroni) are cooled, peeled, and cut up, the flavors are all blended and the salad tastes much better.

Try it, I think you'll like this idea.

DRUG SALES

NEW YORK (UPI) — It figures, if you've noticed the corner druggist too busy to chat about the weather. He's never had busier times, in terms of dollars.

The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association reports sales of ethical drugs—prescription and over-the-counter items advertised only to the health professions — exceeded $2 billion in the United States for the first time in 1963. All drug industry sales were $2.9 billion, five per cent above 1962. Indications are that the '64 figures will grow some more.

Fashion Promotes Silk

By FLORENCE de SANTIS
Silk is returning with a new look.

Precious silks, rather than cheap ones, are finding a new place in the fashion sun. Japan, which began silk production about the second century A. D., is leading in the promotional efforts behind precious silks.

For many centuries silk in Japan was confined to the use of the royal family and the nobility. After the Meiji restoration in 1868, however, Japan discovered the importance of silk as an export. Silk also began to be used more widely for wall paintings and screens on which masterful paintings were done. Thus a very important silk industry grew.

Silk will take almost any kind of texturing and dyes. The ancient traditions of fine silk creation in Japan include such time-tested methods as washing printed silks in streams.

MRS. ROBERT LEON DOUGLAS

Barbara Ann Wright Weds Robert Douglas

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Barbara Ann Wright and Robert Leon Douglas at 7 p.m. Friday, January 22, in the Hill Ridge Baptist Church of Winnsboro. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wright, Winnsboro, are the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Douglas, Brookhaven, Mississippi are parents of the groom.

Miss Dianne Casiday provided organ music and Miss Shirley Arnold was the vocalist.

Baskets of white gladiolas and chrysanthemums flanked the altar where the Reverend Gerald Gilbert heard the wedding vows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Wright. She wore a white lace suit and white mink pillbox with short attached veil. The bridal corsage was fashioned of an orchid and feathered chrysanthemums.

Attending the bride was Miss Julia Collier, who wore a light blue suit with white pillbox. Her corsage was of large white feathered chrysanthemums.

Richard Earl Douglas served the groom as best man. Ushers were Connie Mack Douglas and Billy Wayne Wright.

Mrs. Wright, the bride's mother, wore a blue tweed wool suit with white carnations.

RECEPTION

The wedding reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

Pink roses and white wedding bells centered the bride's table. White lace over pink covered the table and pink candles flanked the floral arrangement.

Mrs. Douglas wore her wedding suit as they left after the reception for a wedding trip to Mexico.

The bride graduated from Crowley High school and attended B.M.I. Mr. Douglas is a graduate of Brookhaven, Mississippi.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge.

Northeast Students Wed In Candlelight Setting

Miss Margaret Wells and William D. Kirby, both seniors at Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe, exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony Saturday, January 23 in the Pine Hill Baptist Church at Sicily Island. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie R. Wells of Sicily Island and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kirby of Jonesville.

Rev. Shelton Sharbono performed the 7:30 p.m. vows in a setting of white chrysanthemums and gladioli with palm trees alternating along the altar by seven branched candelabra holding white tapers with candle trees at each end. Pews were marked with white satin bows and fern.

Mrs. Kathleen Dale was pianist and soloist was Miss Dianne Monroe, cousin of the bride. Candles were lighted preceding the ceremony by Miss Debra Guice and Miss Georgeanne Guice, cousins of the bride, who wore dresses of aqua velvet and wrist corsages.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie featuring a fitted lace bodice with long tapered sleeves and a belled skirt, terminating in a short train. Appliques of lace embellished the front panel. Her elbow length veil was held in place by a double crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade of white feathered chrysanthemums, centered with white orchids and accented by tulle and pearls.

Miss Connie Monroe of Ruston, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Barbara Walker of Monroe and Miss Willie Earl Mock of Winnsboro and junior bridesmaid was Miss Judy Wells, Sicily Island, sister of the bride. They wore identical gowns of aqua blue velvet styled with fitted bodices, scalloped necklines and sleeves and belled skirts. Self fabric roses of velvet with matching veils formed their headresses and they wore dyed to match slippers and carried bouquets of white roses, accented with tulle and pearls.

Flower girl was Miss Cindy Kirby, niece of the groom, of Ferriday, who wore an aqua velvet frock with matching bow and carried a basket of white rice girl was Miss Sue Guice, and blue flowers. Kerner Wayne King, cousin of the groom, acted as ring bearer.

Albert E. Kirby of Plaquemine, attended his brother as best man and groomsmen were James M. Kirby Jr., of Ferriday, also a brother of the groom, Robert Stringer of Jonesville and Jerry Hinton of Sicily Island.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore an evening suit of pink wool with matching accessories. Mrs. Kirby, mother of the groom, chose a beige crepe sheath with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of bronze feathered chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wells, parents of the bride, were hosts at a reception in the social room of the church. Mrs. Joe R. Wells presided at the guest book. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth overlaid with blue tulle and garlanded with white roses. Mrs. Keith Guice served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Wayne Oglesby presided at the crystal punch bowl at opposite end of the table.

Tea girls were Miss Carolyn

Women Must Decide, Fashion Or Comfort

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A London fashion writer predicted today the stylish woman soon will be wearing only two very sheer undergarments.

She didn't name them, but it appeared she meant that old standby, the bra, plus panties.

According to Miss Sandy Shaw of the Daily Sketch, the garter belt and the girdle are doomed. She said girls rapidly are adopting a new very sheer stocking that is self-supporting.

"That ought, at least, to please the experts who've been telling us that corsets are bad for us," she added.

But, if Miss Shaw is right, the girl of the future will be flying in the face of a warning by Prof. Alexander Boyd of Manchester University. He says women who insist on wearing sheer stockings and paper-thin panties in cold weather are running a serious risk.

The professor urged girls to wear old-fashioned bloomers or heavy stockings. Otherwise, he said, they may develop a terrifying condition known as erythrocytosis crurum puerilum frigidum. In simpler words this means the legs may swell and become blotchy.

"Are we likely to take Prof. Boyd's words to heart?" asked the fashion expert, and answered: "I don't think so. Prof. Boyd will no doubt be horrified to hear that we may soon have even less protection from the cold under our short skirts."

NEW YORK FEUD

Republicans End Democratic Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the state's weirdest political episodes in years has ended with Republicans settling a month-long Democratic fight over legislative leadership.

The GOP minority did it by throwing its votes to a Democratic slate backed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York against another Democratic ticket supported by adherents of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Wagner thus retained his position as de facto leader of the state's Democrats despite the emergence of Kennedy as a potent factor in the party.

But the mayor's triumph was scored at the expense of Democratic wounds that may be a long time in healing.

Kennedy declared neutrality throughout the legislative struggle, but the jousting was seen nevertheless by political circles as a test of strength between Kennedy's followers and those of the mayor.

Questions immediately raised were how the party wounds would affect the Wagner's bid for a fourth, four-year term as mayor this year and his possible candidacy for governor next year.

The struggle produced these developments:

- Paralyzed the legislature into inaction on public business for the full month since it convened Jan. 6.
- Shattered Democratic expectations of getting off to an impressive start after gaining control of the legislature for the first time in 30 years.
- Brought a demand by Wagner for the resignation of Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon, who spearheaded a drive by powerful leaders of various big counties to block the Wagner slate. These leaders were the original backers of Kennedy for senator.
- Prompted public hearings by the State Investigation Commission into charges by Wagner that McKeon attempted political bribery in trying to win votes. McKeon denied it and the commission made no finding.
- Raised shouts for the anti-Wagner Democratic forces of a deal between the mayor and Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller; Republican backing for Wagner's slate in return for Democratic support of the governor's legislative program, including higher taxes.
- Both the governor and mayor emphatically denied any deal.
- The Democratic struggle began taking shape soon after the Democrats scored victories in last November's election when Wagner said he thought it would be logical for Sen. Joseph Zaretzky of Manhattan and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia, the legislature minority leaders, to move up to the majority leadership. Both are Wagner allies.
- But the anti-Wagner forces put up their own slate, and at a party meeting mustered more votes than the mayor's forces — but not enough for a majority of either legislative house.
- The anti-Wagner forces continued to hold the upper hand in the vote after vote after the legislature began its session.
- Finally, the Republicans decided to take matters into their hands and Wagner forces won both key posts.
- One Democrat, commenting on the legislative situation, remarked: "The state is littered with the bones of politicians who underestimated Bob Wagner."

Public Asked Not To Drive Atop Levees

R. Fred Petty, president of the Tensas Levee Board, has asked the public to refrain from driving or hauling atop the public levees.

In a statement, released late Friday, the levee board official urged the public cooperation in protecting the embankment, especially within the city limits of Monroe where the state statutes forbidding the driving atop the levee, are most often violated.

Penalty for violating the section of the statutes is a fine of not more than $50 or imprisonment of not more than 30 days.

However, Petty said, the entire board is seeking public cooperation not enforcement of the statute.

Also pointed out is the provision of the statute, which prohibits the scraping or wearing away "the surface of any levee or its surfacing of sod by any form of abuse." This deals with sliding down the levee on boxes, often the afternoon sport during the late spring and summer months.

Particularly harmful in this category, Petty said, is leaving the cardboard boxes on the grass along the levee after youngsters finish using them.

After several days, the box causes the grass to die, thus leaving a portion of the levee bare to the erosions caused by rain and wind.

Gold Bullion Bars Vanish; Police On All-Night Search

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — Police embarked on an all-night search of the luxury liner Capetown Castle on Friday night in quest of 20 gold bullion bars — worth more than a quarter of a million dollars and weighing about 500 pounds — which vanished from the ship stores.

Convinced that the gold is still on board, a team of 36 detectives and customs men systematically combed the 27,000-ton vessel from stern to stern.

The loss was discovered soon after the liner docked here early Friday morning. As soon as the alarm went up, the ship and surrounding docks were sealed off. But by that time all the passengers were ashore and aboard a train for London. About half the crew had been paid off and had left.

The Capetown Castle, sailing from South Africa, had carried a gold shipment of 873 boxes.

Destined for London, the gold was a regular shipment — although bigger than usual — of the kind arriving from South Africa every Friday.

The ship's strongroom was fuller than usual for the voyage, so 10 of the boxes were lodged in an overflow locker. This was the gold that vanished. The locker had been broken into. Each of the boxes contained 20 bars and the whole shipment of 20 bars was reckoned worth $280,000.

The gold had been loaded at Durban. After that, the Cape town Castle made calls at East London, Port Elizabeth, Cape Town and Las Palmas in the Canary Islands.

Messages were flashed to police at all these ports. Checks were being made to find out how many people knew the consignment was larger than usual.

After the alarm, all cars and trucks leaving the docks were searched. Detectives, customs men and Bank of England officials checked and rechecked through the gold that was off-loaded.

Even without the missing boxes, the shipment was worth nearly $22.4 million.

Jaycees Slate Guest Speaker For Meet Here

Special speaker at the state board meeting and Louisiana Outstanding Young Men banquet of the Jaycees set for Monroe Feb. 12-14 will be Dr. Fred Rainey of Elizabethtown, Ky., national vice president of the group.

Dr. Rainey was elected at the 1964 Junior Chamber of Commerce convention at Dallas, Tex. and is assigned to five states including Louisiana.

The national vice president is in charge of the group's "Americanism and Governmental Affairs" portfolio. Because of his affiliation with the Jaycees he is sponsoring a Constitutional prayer amendment, Americanism essay contest, opposition to socialized medicine and "action courses in practical politics."

He is a past local and state president and is active in medical and civic groups in his hometown.

On Saturday, Feb. 13 he will address the Jaycees on the club's Americanism programs.

Washington Trip Provides Treats For Local Band

When the Ouachita Parish High School Band returned recently from their trip to participate in the Inaugural Parade at Washington, D.C., they were loaded down with pictures and souvenirs and physically weary — but satisfied that the long journey was a tremendous success from educational and sheer enjoyment standpoints.

Jack White, director of the band, said that the 61 students and ten chaperones toured the White House through special arrangements made by Senator Ellender. The Senator also arranged for their tour of the Capitol building and treated them to dinner at the new Senate Office Building cafeteria.

The group also saw the Washington Monument, the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery, visited Kennedy's grave, toured Mt. Vernon and Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello.

White also reported that donations went over the $6500 goal set for the trip. He expressed his gratitude to the community for supporting the trip, with a special thanks to Bobby Pappas and Paul Hewitt for their help in securing the invitation for the OPHS band. He also expressed his appreciation to S. T. How-

Atlanta, Ga. (AP) — A federal judge rejected Friday restaurant operator Lester Maddox's defense against charges of discriminating against Negroes and held him in civil contempt.

Dist. Judge Frank A. Hooper fined the segregationist $200 a day for each day his restaurant is open until a statement of compliance with court orders is signed. A permanent injunction was issued last Sept. 4 by the court under the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Hooper ruled that Maddox excluded Negroes from service because of their race. Maddox had contended he was not in contempt because his business was not operated on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin.

Instead, Maddox's attorney argued, he refused service "upon the ground of the political beliefs and ideas espoused and promoted by integrationists, which are exceedingly obnoxious to him."

Hooper testified that any person who seeks service in the restaurant on the basis of the 1964 Civil Rights Act would be considered an integrationist and would not be served.

"To sustain that defense would create an anomaly heretofore unheard of," Hooper said in his opinion. "The beneficiaries under a certain law would be denied the rights given their provisions."

The judge also: —Rejected arguments that Maddox is acting in a different capacity with the Lester Maddox Cafeteria than with the Pickrick, Inc., a defendant included in the original injunction. Both companies are owned by Maddox and are housed in the same building.

—Refused to consider attacks on the constitutionality of the Civil Rights Act's public accommodations section since the Supreme Court already has upheld the law.

—Provided that Maddox and the Pickrick, Inc., could purge themselves of the contempt convictions and fines by filing a statement that they will serve all persons who present themselves for service without discrimination or segregation.

—Ordered that Maddox pay the costs of the court's proceedings.

Three Negroes who filed the suit against Maddox contended their right to eat in the cafeteria had been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court and by Hooper himself.

Warning Issued On Solicitors

Chief James C. Kelly Jr. of the Monroe Police Department explained that house-to-house solicitations are prohibited by the Monroe city code.

The police chief made his comment after several complaints had been received by his office from city residents.

He said that residents should "beware of itinerant merchants such as magazine photographers and stock salesmen and even 'talent scouts.'"

Chief Kelly urged local residents to deal only with persons "whom you know or with locally established firms."

He said, "We have received several calls from persons complaining of the house-to-house canvassing, some wanting to know if it is against the law. It is, and we will take appropriate action when these acts are brought to our attention."

Bids Received By Franklin Parish Board

WINNSBORO (Special) — The Franklin Parish School Board received bids on furniture and equipment for the new Winsor High School at their regular meeting Friday.

Six companies submitted bids and all were taken under advisement.

The board voted to accept the bid of $2,808.58 by Lanier Motor Co. for a 1965 automobile for the superintendent.

The L. & L. Motor Co. submitted a bid of $2,744.36 but their bid did not include taxes and a padded dash which the other bidder did. This, board members said, made the Lanier bid lowest.

Supt. M. D. Peel had volunteered not to accept his salary raise if the school board would purchase a car for his use. The raise would amount to $606 per year. However, $1,200 in travel pay was not deleted from his $12,120 salary.

The vote was 9-2 to accept the auto. Voting against were Otis Hassell from ward seven and F. L. Chambley of ward one.

Peel reported to the board that he had invested a total of $282,000 for 90 days and $17,000 for 60 days.

In other business Mrs. June M. Thacker was employed as a teacher at Central High School to replace Mrs. Evelyn Hatton Good.

The resignation of Robert P. Littlefield, guidance counselor at Winsboro High School, was accepted, effective Jan. 31. The resignation of Mrs. Jean Hassell, secretary to the visiting teacher, was accepted, effective Jan. 31.

Miss Sue Smith was employed as secretary to replace her for the remainder of the 1964-65 school year. John W. Powell was authorized to buy a 60-passenger school bus.

A motion was defeated on a request to allow Hoke Dupree to buy a new 48-passenger bus. Ed McKee was allowed a $30 increase in pay for transporting children from Winsor to Ft. Necessity for a special class.

Engineer Firm Gets Australia Rail Contract

Award of a contract to Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., engineering firm of Monroe and New York, to design and manage construction of a new, 110-mile coal-carrying railroad has been announced by the state of Queensland, Australia.

Transport Minister Gordon W. W. Chalk said the road would connect Gladstone, on the coast, with Moura in the interior of central Queensland. Queensland's railways are government-owned.

At Moura, the railroad will serve the Thiess-Peabody-Mitsui Pty. Ltd. coal mine. Chalk said it was being constructed primarily to bring out 29.6 million tons of coking coal for export to Japan over a 13-year period.

Based on preliminary designs, the cost of the new line is estimated at $22½ million (U.S. currency), exclusive of locomotives and rolling stock.

Ford, Bacon & Davis, a 70-year-old firm, performed similar design and construction management services for the rehabilitation, now nearing completion, of Queensland's 740-mile Collinsville-Mt. Isa railroad. The Mt. Isa program began in 1957.

Drivers Fined In West Monroe Court Session

Charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages brought fines of $300 plus court costs for two men Friday in West Monroe city court. The two were identified as Herbert Miller, Ruston, La., and Emmett C. Shoemaker, 30, Ft. Worth, Texas.

Six persons were fined on charges of reckless driving. They included Larry D. Winn, 19, 703 Cypress street, West Monroe, $25; Linda Wright, 23, of 3123 North Seventh street, in West Monroe, $205; Bailey Street, West Monroe, $20; Horace D. Adams, 17, 308 Haynes, West Monroe, $25; Emma E. Holton, 50, 122 Violet, West Monroe, $15; and H. K. Jackson, 57, Ft. Worth, Texas, $25. Jackson was also fined $100 and court costs on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

Seven cases of speeding were handled in Friday's court. These included James R. Weaver, 23, of 207½ South 2nd street, West Monroe, $30; and the following persons from West Monroe who were fined $15 each: Gary M. Burkart, 19, 804 Crowley; Nathan T. Dollar, 19, Rt. 4, Box 517, John E. Pepper, 28, 2500 Cypress; Hilary Gore, 48, Rt. 4, Box 12; and George L. Herrell, 18, Box 21, a Delhi man, Robert C. Dozier, 40, of 701 Kent street, was also fined $15 on the charge of speeding.

Minor violations included 8 for disturbing the peace, 6 for running red lights, 3 for improper mufflers, and one for vagrancy.
